Four Possible Courses Open in Reapportionment

COURTS MAY DETERMINE FATE OF BILL PASSED

MEASURE MAY BE REPASSED AS A RESOLUTION, NOT NEEDING GOVERNOR'S SIGNATURE

MAY RECONSIDER THE ENTIRE PROBLEM AND PASS NEW LAW

St. Paul, Minn., April 21.—(U.P.)—An advance opinion from the congressional library received by Senator Claude H. Mackenzie, Gaylord, said that a governor's veto of a reapportionment measure passed by the legislature was not valid.

The telegram to Mackenzie cited a case in Ohio when a referendum of the people was held invalid by the courts and that the legislature was the sole arbiter in redistricting.

Legislators, however, were awaiting word from New York state where a case more nearly in point with that here was decided.

St. Paul, Minn., April 21.—(U.P.)—In the last day during which they can pass measures, senators and representatives today argued about what course they would follow in the reapportionment muddle.

Four possible courses were open. They were:

1. To do nothing about reapportionment and allow the courts to determine whether the bill passed yesterday by the senate and vetoed by the governor is legal and valid.

2. To repass the measure as a resolution, thus obviating the necessity of obtaining the governor's signature.

3. To enter a statement in the journal that the bill was passed by the legislature under the terms of the federal constitution.

4. To reconsider the entire problem of redistricting and pass a new measure.

Members of the state senate were awaiting information from the congressional library at Washington on whether the veto of Governor Floyd B. Olson was invalid and ineffective.

Senator A. J. Rockne, of Zumbrota, charged that passage of the redistricting proposal by both houses of the legislature was sufficient to make the plan in force and that the governor's veto was "ineffective."

Governor Olson said that the legislature could have redistricted the state into nine congressional divisions instead of ten as at present by resolution if it had determined to do it without his consent.

In the house, an amended reapportionment bill was on the speaker's table waiting for action. The house reapportionment committee recommended that this measure be passed.

Shortly after the bill had been made public, several Minnesota republican congressmen met here and announced that they had sent a message to Congressman Andreen notifying him that they had "gone as far as possible to help him preserve the third district."

They announced after the meeting that they believed efforts to preserve the third district were responsible for the legislature forcing through a plan which "there was reason to believe would be vetoed by the governor."

The congressmen who attended the meeting were Harold Knutson, Melvin J. Mass, W. I. Nolan, Paul J. Kvale and William Pittenger.

They announced that they had no objection to the bill suggested last week by Governor Olson "except that it would affect the third district and thus displease Congressman Andreen."

The only congressmen who were absent from the meeting were Godfrey G. Goodwin of the tenth district, who has taken no part in the reapportionment battle, and C. G. Selvig of the ninth, who is in Europe.

Previously, all of the congressmen attending the meeting had aligned themselves with Andreen to save the "sacred third."

"Congressman Andreen believes he can do as well running at large as he could under the governor's proposal," said Knutson. "That is why the governor's suggestion was not taken and the matter solved."

State Senator A. J. Rockne of Zumbrota stuck to his guns in his campaign to have the bill vetoed by Olson made into a law. Rockne charged the veto was "ineffective."

"I have been in communication with state officials in New York and Massachusetts," Rockne said, "and in both those states the legislatures are going along with redistricting plans without the governor's approval."

"We can simply insert in the senate journal a notice that the bill has passed both houses and the matter will be finished. The governor's veto then would have no standing."

Rockne pointed out that the national constitution provides that "the legislatures of the states shall determine the time and place for election of representatives in congress." Some senate leaders agreed with Rockne, but others said there was no question of the constitutionality of the governor's veto of the bill.

FREAK PAIR OF TWINS BORN TO FILIPINO COUPLE

Cebu, P. I., April 21.—(U.P.)—A freak pair of twins, with one body, two heads, four arms, two pairs of lungs, four ears, four feet and three legs, was born to a Filipino couple, Mr. and Mrs. Vanancio Rivas, in Lianga, Surigao, it was learned today.

The bodies are joined, not like most such twins, but more intimately so that from the stomach downward there is but one digestive system.

Because there are two lungs and two hearts, physicians say the freak is remarkably strong and will survive. In the strange association of the bodies the sex of the twins has been obscured, but physicians are inclined to believe the freak represents what would normally have been a boy and a girl. The parents immediately decided to go into the show business, and are planning to invade Manila and the United States.

KING AND QUEEN OF SIAM NOW HEADING EAST

ALTHOUGH TRAVELING INCONITO, GUARD IS KEPT OVER THEIR MAJESTIES

CHARMING QUEEN SMILES AND WAVES AT CROWDS ON STATION PLATFORMS

By EARL J. JOHNSON

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Aboard Siamese Royal Train, April 21.—King Prajadhipok and Queen Rambai of Siam crossed Wisconsin and Minnesota during the night and today were heading toward the east for a visit to the White House and later to have American surgeons remove a cataract from his majesty's left eye.

Although traveling incognito as Prince and Princess Sukhodaya, the guard kept over their majesties is of proportions fit for a monarch. Not a word has the king or queen spoken except to members of their own party since leaving the Canadian border on Sunday night at Portia, N. D.

Charming Queen Rambai appeared several times at the window of their private car to smile and wave at crowds on station platforms in North Dakota and Minnesota, but the king remained in his compartment, conferring with ministers, advisors and princes in the royal party.

Prajadhipok, most powerful of the world's remaining absolute monarchs, is conducting the affairs of his kingdom of 11,500,000 population from aboard the train. At almost every stop telegrams and cablegrams are received and dispatched by Pra Narair, the royal chamberlain.

Partly because of his own frailty and partly because he is naturally shy, the king leaves the courtesies of acknowledging public curiosity along the way to his young queen, who has been called the most beautiful woman in the Orient.

The journey to Chicago from St. Paul last night and today followed the route of the old Wisconsin Central railroad, now a division of the Soo Line, through Stevens Point, Oshkosh, Fond Du Lac and Waukesha and entering Illinois at Antioch.

2 GANGSTERS HURL ACID ON VICTIM

ATTACK MAN WITH KNIVES AS FLUID EXPLODES ON CHICAGO STREET

Chicago, April 21.—(U.P.)—Two gangsters hurled inflammable acid upon Joseph Laigen, 55, today, attacked him with knives as the fluid exploded, and fled leaving him helpless in the street with his clothing and face aflame.

Despite a wound reaching from the neck to the abdomen, Laigen put out the flames and crawled and staggered to the Mercy hospital two blocks away, where a priest found and rescued him.

Laigen, a laborer for an ice cream company, left a street car and was walking to work when the two gangsters appeared behind him. As Laigen lit a cigar, one of the men sprang forward and poured the contents of a bottle over his head.

The fluid trickled down Laigen's face, reached the lighted cigar, and flared.

The men drew knives as Laigen clawed his face and neck, stabbed him in the abdomen, then fled.

Laigen told police that a salesman called at his home recently, sold $18 worth of grapes, was robbed as he departed and accused the laborer of having a hand in the hold-up.

DR. I. E. KELLEY, JR. IS REPORTED HELD BY KIDNAPERS

IS ONE OF ST. LOUIS' MOST PROMINENT AND WEALTHIEST PHYSICIANS

St. Louis, April 21.—(U.P.)—Dr. Isaac E. Kelley, Jr., 44, one of St. Louis' most prominent and wealthiest physicians, was believed to be held by kidnapers today while city and county authorities conducted a search for him.

Kelley failed to return home last night after he answered a sick call at an outlying district. Mrs. Kelley is heirless to several million dollars.

Both police and Kelley's wife were convinced that the physician was being held for ransom. Mrs. Kelley has retained an attorney to conduct negotiations with the kidnapers.

Kelley received a telephone call at 9:30 last night calling him to a filling station in an isolated district in St. Louis county. Mrs. Kelley notified authorities today.

Police said that a canvass of the district where Dr. Kelley was directed failed to reveal that he had arrived. Neighbors said they knew of no call being placed for Dr. Kelley.

Dr. Kelley's wife is the sister-in-law of William Orthwein, Jr., whose cousin, Adolphus A. Orthwein, grandson of the head of Anheuser-Busch Inc., was kidnaped last New Year's eve.

LOQUACIOUS WIFE LOSES FOUNTAIN PEN, WATCH, PURSE, ETC.

Washington, April 21.—(U.P.)—A wife who required no replies to make her conversation a success is lacking a watch, a fountain pen, a purse and sundry other articles of value today.

Mrs. John Campbell was talking to her husband but her husband wasn't listening. Unaware of that salient fact, Mrs. Campbell talked on and on in the living room of their apartment, aware of someone putting about in the adjacent bedroom. She assumed it to be John.

At length, after a considerable series of "John this" and "John that," Mrs. Campbell grew uneasy. Even John Campbell put in a word occasionally.

She walked into the bedroom just in time to see a sneak-thief go out another door and down the stairs with the family jewels.

FORMER SALESMEN FACE CHARGES OF FRAUD AT ST. PAUL

AIR DEFUNCT DIAMOND MOTOR PARTS COMPANY OF ST. CLOUD AFFAIRS

TRIAL OPENS IN FEDERAL COURT WITH JUDGE JOHN B. SANBORN ON BENCH

St. Paul, Minn., April 21.—(U.P.)—The long trail down which government prosecutors have followed the defunct Diamond Motor Parts Company of St. Cloud neared an end today when seven former salesmen of the company went on trial in federal court on charges of using the mails to defraud.

Those who appeared in court today for their trials were Charles Fried, J. P. Figman, B. F. Gumpert and A. J. Sugar, all of Chicago; Albert Pollak, Peoria, Ill.; and C. A. Wilding, Salt Lake City. Federal Judge John B. Sanborn was on the bench and R. V. Rensch, assistant United States attorney, was assigned to the prosecution.

Rensch was one of the federal investigators who started inquiries in several states and uncovered the evidence on which indictments were returned against salesmen and officials of the company.

Twenty-nine salesmen and officials of the firm originally were named in indictments. Of that number, nine have pleaded guilty, 10 are fugitives, one is absent because of illness and two are dead.

H. H. Van Cleave of Chicago, a broker who dealt in Diamond Motors stock, appeared in federal court late yesterday and changed his former plea of not guilty to one of guilty. Sentence was deferred to November 8.

The following former officials and employees of the firm were arraigned before Judge Sanborn on April 7 and entered pleas of guilty:

Frank Moxham, Excelsior, Minn., former vice president.

Max H. Hoffman, Minneapolis, salesman.

H. H. Carlisle, Detroit, salesman.

N. H. Bernstein, Chicago.

Their sentences will be passed May 26.

At the same time, the following salesmen pleaded not guilty, some of whom have since changed their pleas to guilty:

E. J. Smith, Chicago.

Verner W. Schlieder, Chicago.

Albert Pollak, Peoria, Ill.

J. J. Figman, Chicago.

L. J. Ascher, Chicago.

A. J. Sugar, Chicago.

G. C. Baumgartner, Chicago.

G. H. Van Cleave, Chicago.

Charles Fried, Chicago.

Ascher appeared before Judge Sanborn and changed his plea to guilty. His sentence was deferred. Smith changed his plea to guilty a few days later and his sentence also was deferred.

The only persons indicted in connection with the firm who have already been sentenced are Schleider and Baumgartner.

They changed their pleas on April 9. Both are fined $500 but Baumgartner's fine was suspended.

Sale of the securities in the St. Cloud firm is alleged to have cost investors in 11 states extending from the middle west to the Pacific coast approximately $2,000,000.

George C. Bouthenon, former head of the concern, also indicted and freed under $10,000 bond, committed suicide at Sawtelle, Calif., last Dec. 20.

Names of the defendants who have not yet been arrested will not be revealed by the government until they have been apprehended, it was said.

CROFT AND BOERNER NAMED SUBJECT TO APPROVED TERMS

MR. CROFT TO APPEAR BEFORE BOARD NEXT THURSDAY TO DISCUSS CONTRACT TERMS

ENTIRE TEACHING STAFF OF CITY SUBMITTED FOR RE-ELECTION

At a meeting of the Board of Education held in the Washington high school building last evening the firm of Croft and Boerner, Minneapolis, was selected to do the architectural work for the new Junior High School, subject to the reaching of satisfactory terms with the Board of Education.

Mr. Croft, of Croft and Boerner, will be expected to be present at an adjourned meeting of the board next Thursday night to talk over the terms of the contract.

Before taking up the matter of resolutions the following letter from the office of the attorney general addressed to Secretary Louis F. Hohman, was read before the board:

This is to acknowledge receipt of your letter of April seventeenth:

You state that on April seventh last the electors of your school district, at a special election, authorized the board to acquire by condemnation proceedings certain described properties and to erect a junior high school building thereon at a total cost of not to exceed $260,000.00. It further appears that at the close of the current school year, July 31, 1931, there will be in the treasury of your district, after paying all current school expenditures for the year, a sum in excess of $200,000.00. You inquire whether this surplus may be used for the purpose of erecting the building in question.

You are advised that if this money is not the proceeds of any special levy for a specified purpose or the proceeds of any bond issue for a special use, the district may use it for the purpose indicated. If there are any moneys therein as a result of a special levy for a specified purpose or any proceeds of a bond issue for a particular use, such moneys may not be so used unless such special purposes have been completed and a surplus remains.

Yours very truly,
Charles E. Phillips,
Assistant Attorney General,
Adopt Resolution

In starting proceedings for the acquisition of property in block 82 for the erection of the new Junior High School the first step was made by the reading and the adoption of the following resolution by the board by unanimous vote:

Whereas the Board of Education (School Board) of the Brainerd School District, was, on April 7, 1931, at a Special Election of the electors of said Brainerd School District, duly called and held for that purpose, duly authorized to acquire for the Brainerd School District by purchase or condemnation proceedings under the right of eminent domain, the following described property, situated in the City of Brainerd, County of Crow Wing and State of Minnesota, to wit:

All of Block 82 in the Town of Brainerd and the First Addition to the Town of Brainerd, according to the recorded plats thereof, respectively, for the purpose of a new or additional School Site; sell, dispose of and remove the buildings therefrom and erect and construct a Junior High School building thereon at a total cost of not to exceed $260,000.00.

Therefore it is resolved:

That it is necessary and expedient that the Brainerd School District immediately take and acquire the title and possession of the whole of the above described property and premises for the purpose of a new or additional School Site; sell, dispose of and remove the buildings therefrom and erect and construct a Junior High School building thereon at a total cost of not to exceed the sum of $260,000.00.

That it is now practicable, necessary and expedient, that the Brainerd School District take and acquire the title and possession of Lots 22, 23 and 24 of Block 161 of the Town of Brainerd, according to the recorded plat thereof, located in the City of Brainerd, County of Crow Wing and State of Minnesota, to be used for school purposes and grounds and enlarge the present school site, known as the Lincoln School Site, to the area of one block, all of the balance of said Block 161 being already owned by said Brainerd School District and being now used for the said Lincoln School Site, building and grounds.

That F. E. Elmer, attorney, Brainerd, Minnesota, be and hereby is authorized and directed to prepare and file, in the name of the Brainerd School District, the necessary petition in condemnation proceedings, in the District Court of Crow Wing County, Minnesota, to take and acquire the title and possession of the whole of the above described properties and tracts, under the right of eminent domain, and conduct such proceedings to the final determination thereof.

DR. I. E. KELLEY, JR. IS REPORTED HELD BY KIDNAPERS

IS ONE OF ST. LOUIS' MOST PROMINENT AND WEALTHIEST PHYSICIANS

St. Louis, April 21.—(U.P.)—Dr. Isaac E. Kelley, Jr., 44, one of St. Louis' most prominent and wealthiest physicians, was believed to be held by kidnapers today while city and county authorities conducted a search for him.

Kelley failed to return home last night after he answered a sick call at an outlying district. Mrs. Kelley is heirless to several million dollars.

Both police and Kelley's wife were convinced that the physician was being held for ransom. Mrs. Kelley has retained an attorney to conduct negotiations with the kidnapers.

Kelley received a telephone call at 9:30 last night calling him to a filling station in an isolated district in St. Louis county. Mrs. Kelley notified authorities today.

Police said that a canvass of the district where Dr. Kelley was directed failed to reveal that he had arrived. Neighbors said they knew of no call being placed for Dr. Kelley.

Dr. Kelley's wife in the sister-in-law of William Orthwein, Jr., whose cousin, Adolphus A. Orthwein, grandson of the head of Anheuser-Busch Inc., was kidnaped last New Year's eve.

TRYING TO MAKE REAL BEER A LEGITIMATE DRINK

REF. MELVIN J. MAAS, ST. PAUL, ADDRESSES JUNIOR ASSOCIATION OF COMMERCE

SAYS BEER BLOC HAS STRENGTH TO FORCE A VOTE AT THE NEXT SESSION

St. Paul, Minn., April 21.—(U.P.)—If congress refuses to make real beer a legitimate drink, appropriations for the department of justice will be held up by the beer bloc, Rep. Melvin J. Maas, St. Paul, told the Junior Association of Commerce today.

He said that the beer bloc had sufficient strength to force a vote at the next session and that it could muster enough strength to hold up department of justice appropriations unless some provision was made for legalizing 4 per cent beer.

"If the manufacture of beer is made legitimate it will furnish employment for 2,000,000 men," Maas said.

Rep. Maas said that now is the time to put over the St. Lawrence waterways project and the 9-foot channel program. Congress in the future will become so divided that it will be virtually impossible to get an agreement on such legislative programs.

CLEARING SKIES TO BRING COLD

FREEZING TEMPERATURES DUE IN NORTHWEST TONIGHT AND WEDNESDAY

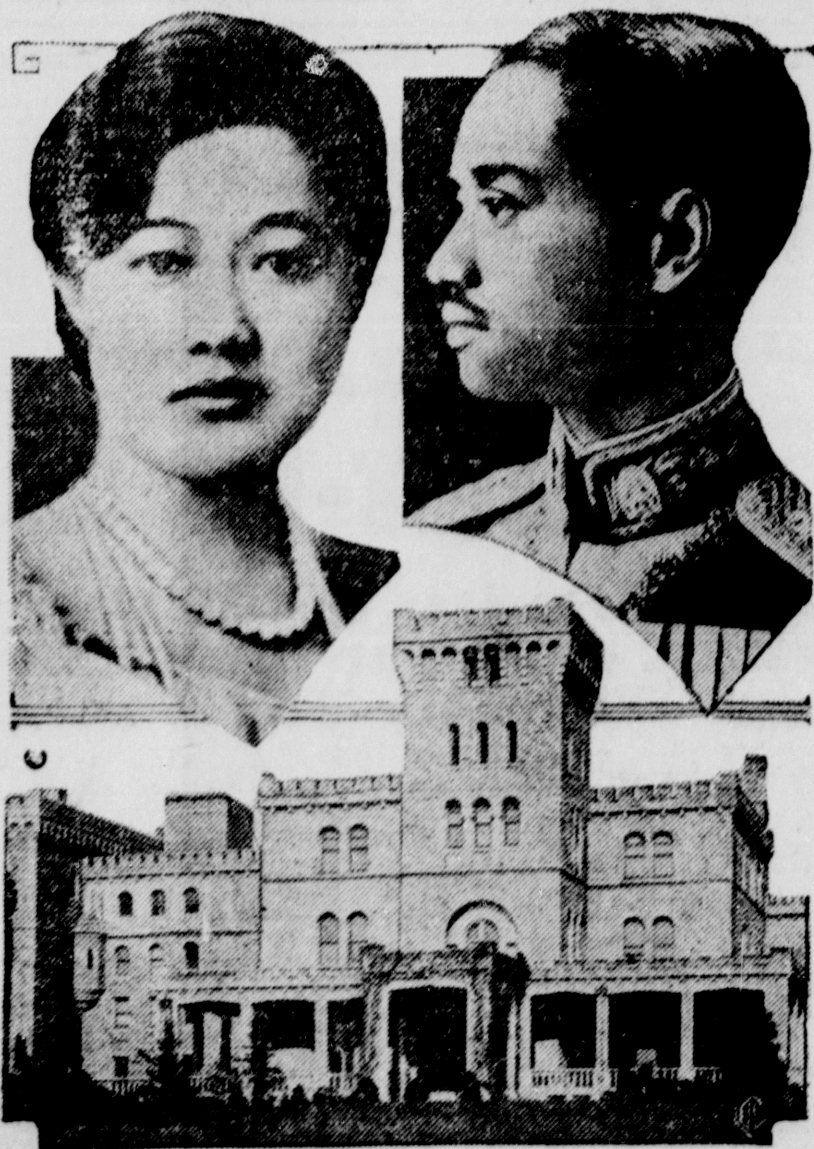

St. Paul, Minn., April 21.—(U.P.)—Clearing skies will bring freezing temperatures to the northwest tonight and Wednesday, the United States weather bureau said today.

The temperature at St. Paul today was 36. Huron, S. D., had 26 and similar temperatures were forecast for Minnesota for tomorrow.

Slippery streets impeded traffic in the Twin Cities and many roads throughout the state were reported in poor shape.

CROFT AND BOERNER NAMED SUBJECT TO APPROVED TERMS

MR. CROFT TO APPEAR BEFORE BOARD NEXT THURSDAY TO DISCUSS CONTRACT TERMS

ENTIRE TEACHING STAFF OF CITY SUBMITTED FOR RE-ELECTION

At a meeting of the Board of Education held in the Washington high school building last evening the firm of Croft and Boerner, Minneapolis, was selected to do the architectural work for the new Junior High School, subject to the reaching of satisfactory terms with the Board of Education.

Mr. Croft, of Croft and Boerner, will be expected to be present at an adjourned meeting of the board next Thursday night to talk over the terms of the contract.

Before taking up the matter of resolutions the following letter from the office of the attorney general addressed to Secretary Louis F. Hohman, was read before the board:

This is to acknowledge receipt of your letter of April seventeenth:

You state that on April seventh last the electors of your school district, at a special election, authorized the board to acquire by condemnation proceedings certain described properties and to erect a junior high school building thereon at a total cost of not to exceed $260,000.00. It further appears that at the close of the current school year, July 31, 1931, there will be in the treasury of your district, after paying all current school expenditures for the year, a sum in excess of $200,000.00. You inquire whether this surplus may be used for the purpose of erecting the building in question.

You are advised that if this money is not the proceeds of any special levy for a specified purpose or the proceeds of any bond issue for a special use, the district may use it for the purpose indicated. If there are any moneys therein as a result of a special levy for a specified purpose or any proceeds of a bond issue for a particular use, such moneys may not be so used unless such special purposes have been completed and a surplus remains.

Yours very truly,
Charles E. Phillips,
Assistant Attorney General,
Adopt Resolution

In starting proceedings for the acquisition of property in block 82 for the erection of the new Junior High School the first step was made by the reading and the adoption of the following resolution by the board by unanimous vote:

Whereas the Board of Education (School Board) of the Brainerd School District, was, on April 7, 1931, at a Special Election of the electors of said Brainerd School District, duly called and held for that purpose, duly authorized to acquire for the Brainerd School District by purchase or condemnation proceedings under the right of eminent domain, the following described property, situated in the City of Brainerd, County of Crow Wing and State of Minnesota, to wit:

All of Block 82 in the Town of Brainerd and the First Addition to the Town of Brainerd, according to the recorded plats thereof, respectively, for the purpose of a new or additional School Site; sell, dispose of and remove the buildings therefrom and erect and construct a Junior High School building thereon, at a total cost of not to exceed $260,000.00.

Therefore be it resolved:

That it is necessary and expedient that the Brainerd School District immediately take and acquire the title and possession of the whole of the above described property and premises for the purpose of a new or additional School Site; sell, dispose of and remove the buildings therefrom and erect and construct a Junior High School building thereon at a total cost of not to exceed the sum of $260,000.00.

That it is now practicable, necessary and expedient, that the Brainerd School District take and acquire the title and possession of Lots 22, 23 and 24 of Block 161 of the Town of Brainerd, County of Crow Wing and State of Minnesota, to be used for school purposes and grounds and enlarge the present school site, known as the Lincoln School Site, to the area of one block, all of the balance of said Block 161 being already owned by said Brainerd School District and being now used for the said Lincoln School Site, building and grounds.

That F. E. Ebner, attorney, Brainerd, Minnesota, be and hereby is authorized and directed to prepare and file, in the name of the Brainerd School District, the necessary petition in condemnation proceedings, in the District Court of Crow Wing County, Minnesota, to take and acquire the title and possession of the whole of the above described properties and tracts, under the right of eminent domain, and conduct such proceedings to the final determination thereof.

LOQUACIOUS WIFE LOSES FOUNTAIN PEN, WATCH, PURSE, ETC.

Washington, April 21.—(U.P.)—A wife who required no replies to make her conversation a success is lacking a watch, a fountain pen, a purse and sundry other articles of value today.

Mrs. John Campbell was talking to her husband but her husband wasn't listening. Unaware of that salient fact, Mrs. Campbell talked on and on in the living room of their apartment, aware of someone pattering about in the adjacent bedroom. She assumed it to be John.

At length, after a considerable series of "John this" and "John that," Mrs. Campbell grew uneasy. Even John Campbell put in a word occasionally.

She walked into the bedroom just in time to see a sneak-thief go out another door and down the stairs with the family jewels.

FORMER SALESMEN FACE CHARGES OF FRAUD AT ST. PAUL

AIR DEFUNCT DIAMOND MOTOR PARTS COMPANY OF ST. CLOUD AFFAIRS

TRIAL OPENS IN FEDERAL COURT WITH JUDGE JOHN B. SANBORN ON BENCH

St. Paul, Minn., April 21.—(U.P.)—The long trail down which government prosecutors have followed the defunct Diamond Motor Parts Company of St. Cloud neared an end today when seven former salesmen of the company went on trial in federal court on charges of using the mails to defraud.

Those who appeared in court today for their trials were Charles Fried, J. Figman, B. F. Gumpert and A. J. Sugar, all of Chicago; Albert Pollak, Peoria, Ill.; and C. A. Widling, Salt Lake City. Federal Judge John B. Sanborn was on the bench and R. V. Rensch, assistant United States attorney, was assigned to the prosecution.

Rensch was one of the federal investigators who started inquiries in several states and uncovered the evidence on which indictments were returned against salesmen and officials of the company.

Twenty-nine salesmen and officials of the firm originally were named in indictments. Of that number, nine have pleaded guilty, 10 are fugitives, one is absent because of illness and two are dead.

H. H. Van Cleave of Chicago, a broker who dealt in Diamond Motors stock, appeared in federal court late yesterday and changed his former plea of not guilty to one of guilty. Sentence was deferred to November 8.

The following former officials and employees of the firm were arraigned before Judge Sanborn on April 7 and entered pleas of guilty:

Frank Moxham, Excelsior, Minn., former vice president.

Max H. Hoffalin, Minneapolis, salesman.

H. H. Carlisle, Detroit, salesman.

N. H. Bernstein, Chicago.

Their sentences will be passed May 26.

At the same time, the following salesmen pleaded not guilty, some of whom have since changed their pleas to guilty:

E. J. Smith, Chicago.

Vernor W. Schlieder, Chicago.

Albert Pollak, Peoria, Ill.

J. J. Figman, Chicago.

L. J. Ascher, Chicago.

A. J. Sugar, Chicago.

G. C. Baumgartner, Chicago.

G. H. Van Cleave, Chicago.

Charles Fried, Chicago.

Ascher appeared before Judge Sanborn and changed his plea to guilty. His sentence was deferred. Smith changed his plea to guilty a few days later and his sentence also was deferred.

The only persons indicted in connection with the firm who have already been sentenced are Schlieder and Baumgartner.

They changed their pleas on April 9. Both are fined $500 but Baumgartner's fine was suspended.

Sale of the securities in the St. Cloud firm is alleged to have cost investors in 11 states extending from the middle west to the Pacific coast approximately $2,000,000.

George C. Bouthenon, former head of the concern, also indicted and freed under $10,000 bond, committed suicide at Sawtelle, Calif., last Dec. 20.

Names of the defendants who have not yet been arrested will not be revealed by the government until they have been apprehended, it was said.

Fort Snelling, Minn., April 21.—(U.P.)—Captain J. H. Burghelm today reported the theft of a Browning machine gun. Government officials and Twin City police were investigating the possibility that gangsters had engineered the robbery.

OVER 160 ATTEND LEGION SUPPER

Ten Cars of People Come From St. Cloud to Join in the Evening's Festivities

NEW POST "DAD" SPEAKS

A Number of Musical Numbers Are Featured Following the Meeting and Initiation

More than 160 people attended the Legion Auxiliary's supper last night, although figures of the final check-up had not been completed late this afternoon. The Legion's Past Commanders' meeting was also well attended.

Ten cars from St. Cloud came up bringing the Legion band and Legion members to take in the initiation and meeting. The St. Cloud delegation was served supper upon arriving after which the band put on a short concert down on the street in front of Levis' candy shop.

The regular meeting was conducted by Jack Aiton. At its conclusion he turned the gavel over to Geo. Sweet who with Past Commanders Kirk Smith, Earl Rhodes, Art Hagberg, Ray Hall, and Archie Falconer put on the initiation.

Following the meeting and initiation this program was given: selections by the St. Cloud Legion band; songs by the Harmony Four; trombone solo by Emily Mraz; vocal duets by Al Mraz and Roland Jenkins; John Bye, the new post's "dad" was presented to the group and gave a short interesting talk.

At the close of the program Commander Aiton as spokesman for the Legion and Auxiliary presented an official Minnesota Legion blazer to District Commander Art Hagberg as a token of appreciation of the work done for the Legion and Auxiliary. Dancing and a lunch served by the Auxiliary rounded out the evening's entertainment.

'PARKING MACHINE' TO SOLVE PARKING PROBLEM IN CITIES

New York, April 21.—(UP)—The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company has a solution for the parking problem.

N. D. Jones, consulting engineer, has announced the invention of the "parking machine," which will park 24 automobiles in a space usually allotted two cars.

It is a vertical machine housed in the space of a two-car garage and operates on an endless chain running over sprocket wheels at the top and bottom similar to a conveyor. To the chain are attached 24 cages.

When a motorist wants to park all he has to do is to drive to the "vertical garage," place a key in his allotted space and an empty cage appears at the street level.

When he wants his car again he places the key in the proper slot and the endless chain revolves until his machine appears.

SELECT ARCHITECTS FOR NEW JUNIOR HIGH

tee was adopted and in the course of a few days all teachers will receive their contracts which must be returned to the secretary of the Board of Education, either signed or unsigned, within 10 days after receipt.

The salary schedule as recommended by the committee is practically the same as that of last year. Only in a very few instances were any increases in salary recommended these were more in the form of adjustments.

A communication was received and filed from William LeDoux, a property owner in block 82, who offered to sell his property to the board.

The meeting last night was an adjourned regular meeting from April 8. All members were present with the exception of Fred Drexler and Dr. G. H. Ribbel. Last night's meeting was adjourned until Thursday night at which time the final arrangements for engaging the architect will be taken up with Mr. Croft of Croft and Boerner, Minneapolis.

The old board will wind up its business on the first Monday in May. The recently elected board will qualify and organize on or before May 20.

OH THESE WOMEN!

By
LEOLA ALLARD

Copyright 1931, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

A Michigan farmer lost his wife and wishes me to send him another one! "Please," says he, don't send me a dreamer, and I very much thank you."

He is from the old country, and he thinks a woman should be satisfied with "a cool cook stove," an oil lamp and a water pump outside the kitchen door, to say nothing of enough to eat and a comfortable place to sleep.

You and your wife always lived in the city. The farm is a new experiment, though you were born on a farm. If she's so dreadfully unhappy there why don't you try to get a job in town? Aren't you being pig headed? If you can't get a job, she doesn't sound like the kind to make you unhappy over it. But she did show a willingness to help when she agreed to go on the farm.

You were married to her 12 years and got along all that time. Isn't it worth a try at city life again? What if you do lose something? Which would you rather lose, money or your wife? That, of course, is up to you.

You want her to be contented. Perhaps it's you and not the farm that irks her. Perhaps you were a bit exacting and expected more than she could give you. At any rate you didn't make her happy. You were never rich and she clung to you for 12 years, so it couldn't have been poverty that made her go.

In cases like this, it's a very good idea to sit down and take personal inventory and find out what you did that was wrong. If you spend too much time listing your partner's faults you are more than likely to overlook the real answer to your difficulties.

I know you worked hard. You sound sincere, but you couldn't have given her more than the material comforts, because you ask for another wife, at once, and order her by mail from a stranger! John, John! And you say the wife who left you hated, and liked the easy life. Then why did she agree to go to a farm where she had to pump water and cook on a poor stove and have nothing but you to amuse her? And now you say she's going to find a job and go to work.

I can't quite believe you are being altogether honest. Perhaps if you listen to her, she might help you to get into something where you could both be happy and together? Aren't you just a trifle hard headed John? I thought so. Why don't you get your wife to come back and try to readjust yourselves or get a job in town or do something that will make you both happy? After all a woman should have something to say if she is going to have to pump water and cook on what you call a "cool cook stove." Did you ever try to cook on one, John?

It seems to me you haven't much to lose if you get a job in town and both go to work for a while till you get set.

I'm afraid I can't sympathize much with a hard headed man who, when his wife leaves, writes me to send him another right away. You better go find the one who left you. Listen to her advice sometimes and make it a little bit more so-so and a little less so-so and I think you will make the grade.

EAST ROUND LAKE

Sunday guests at the Knowlton house were Mr. and Mrs. Addie Aitkin, Mr. and Mrs. Whitson and son and his wife of Minneapolis, Mr. and Mrs. T. Blackburn of Brainerd and their daughter, Mrs. McLain of Washington.

Miss Jeppson of Bennettville was a week end guest at the Bert Scott home on Borden Lake.

Professor and Mrs. Finney were up to their cottage on Indian Ridge for the week end. They had as their dinner guests on Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Enger.

The fire warden rented Mrs. A. H. Barber's phone for the summer and will use it at the fire tower on Warren's hill.

Mr. Carlson installed a new lighting plant at his Arrowhead resort recently.

Mr. Nelson of Minneapolis was up to his new cottage on Indian Ridge. Mrs. J. N. Francis called on Mrs. A. H. Knowlton and Mrs. T. Engen on Wednesday. They called at the home of Mrs. A. H. Barber on Friday.

The fire was quite near the Linden House Thursday afternoon and the fire warden and neighbors were called out. They subdued the fire, but just in time as a few feet more it would have blown in tall grass and with the wind blowing towards the buildings, it would have been impossible to do much to save them.

The wind has put the telephone line out of commission, making it impossible to get much news. There will be more next week.

1 MAN BURNED TO DEATH IN FOREST FIRES

Hagerstown, Md., April 21.—(UP)—One man was burned to death and two others were seriously injured by forest fires reported to have spread over 3,000 acres of land in this area.

The fires burned throughout Washington county, Maryland, and destroyed more than a half dozen homes and valuable forest areas. Wardens reported that the fires had begun to cross over the Pennsylvania line.

What Is a Boy Scout? This Series Explains

(The Brainerd Dispatch has arranged to present a series of articles giving information concerning the Boy Scouts of America and of the Brainerd district. Look for these articles to learn the facts.)

The Drive Is On

The men on the committee are working hard to put it over. Have you done your bit?

Money depends on men. Its making and its morals are in the hands of men. Tomorrow these scouts will be our men. They will have to do with money. What will they do with it? They will be honest, straight, clean, because we are going to help them.

Community character depends on the character of its citizens. Tomorrow our boys will be our citizens. What kind of citizens will they be? They will be physically strong, mentally awake, morally straight—because we are going to help them.

Scouting Has Been Tested

It is an investment but not an experiment.

It is no gold brick. No blue-sky law restrains it. Your receipt for your subscription will not be a relic of folly.

It will be a souvenir that in later days will make your dimming eyes glow with pride.

Some day you will sit and think of things done in making Brainerd and you will say: "Character and intelligence made that trail. It paid to put money into scouting."

Suppose you could raise your boy yourself. Could you do more than make him: physically strong, mentally awake, morally straight? Could you?

How long are you going to keep him isolated? Sooner or later he must start out for himself. What then?

He may have learned to understand you. He has not thus learned to understand other boys. And they are the ones with whom he must later build his life. This is where scouting comes in.

Successful business men approve and endorse scouting.

Co-operation With Other Clubs for Our Youth

It is probably not generally known that the BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA co-operate with all upbuilding organizations. The camp of the Scouts is made available to the Camp Fire Girls every year if they wish to use it.

OVER 160 ATTEND LEGION SUPPER

Ten Cars of People Come From St. Cloud to Join in the Evening's Festivities

NEW POST "DAD" SPEAKS

A Number of Musical Numbers Are Featured Following the Meeting and Initiation

More than 160 people attended the Legion Auxiliary's supper last night, although figures of the final check-up had not been completed late this afternoon. The Legion's Past Commanders' meeting was also well attended.

Ten cars from St. Cloud came up bringing the Legion band and Legion members to take in the initiation and meeting. The St. Cloud delegation was served supper upon arriving after which the band put on a short concert down on the street in front of Levi's candy shop.

The regular meeting was conducted by Jack Aiton. At its conclusion he turned the gavel over to Geo. Sweet who with Past Commanders Kirk Smith, Earl Rhodes, Art Hagberg, Ray Hall, and Archie Falconer put on the initiation.

Following the meeting and initiation this program was given: selections by the St. Cloud Legion band; songs by the Harmony Four; trombone solo by Emily Mraz; vocal duets by Al Mraz and Roland Jenkins; John Bye, the new post's "dad" was presented to the group and gave a short interesting talk.

At the close of the program Commander Aiton as spokesman for the Legion and Auxiliary presented an official Minnesota Legion blazer to District Commander Art Hagberg as a token of appreciation of the work done for the Legion and Auxiliary. Dancing and a lunch served by the Auxiliary rounded out the evening's entertainment.

Scouts Staging Successful Drive for Budget Quota

Reports from the Boy Scout drive here today to raise the annual budget indicated that drive would be successful. The main part of the drive should be finished by tomorrow evening.

Solicitors reported a number of very successful interviews today with business men who were very liberal, and in their opinion the drive will easily net the quota that has been set.

'PARKING MACHINE' TO SOLVE PARKING PROBLEM IN CITIES

New York, April 21.—(U.P.)—The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company has a solution for the parking problem.

N. D. Jones, consulting engineer, has announced the invention of the "parking machine," which will park 24 automobiles in a space usually allotted two cars.

It is a vertical machine housed in the space of a two-car garage and operates on an endless chain running over sprocket wheels at the top and bottom similar to a conveyor. To the chain are attached 24 cages.

When a motorist wants to park all he has to do is to drive to the "vertical garage," place a key in his allotted space and an empty cage appears at the street level.

When he wants his car again he places the key in the proper slot and the endless chain revolves until his machine appears.

tee was adopted and in the course of a few days all teachers will receive their contracts which must be returned to the secretary of the Board of Education, either signed or unsigned, within 10 days after receipt.

The salary schedule as recommended by the committee is practically the same as that of last year. Only in a very few instances were any increases in salary recommended these were more in the form of adjustments.

A communication was received and filed from William LeDoux, a property owner in block 82, who offered to sell his property to the board.

The meeting last night was an adjourned regular meeting from April 8. All members were present with the exception of Fred Drexler and Dr. G. H. Ribbel. Last night's meeting was adjourned until Thursday night at which time the final arrangements for engaging the architect will be taken up with Mr. Croft of Croft and Boerner, Minneapolis.

The old board will wind up its business on the first Monday in May. The recently elected board will qualify and organize on or before May 20.

OH THESE WOMEN!

By

LEOLA ALLARD

Copyright 1931, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

A Michigan farmer lost his wife and wishes me to send him another one! "Please," says he, don't send me a dreamer, and I very much thank you."

He is from the old country, and he thinks a woman should be satisfied with "a cool cook stove," an oil lamp and a water pump outside the kitchen door, to say nothing of enough to eat and a comfortable place to sleep.

You and your wife always lived in the city. The farm is a new experiment, though you were born on a farm. If she's so dreadfully unhappy there why don't you try to get a job in town? Aren't you being pig headed? If you can't get a job, she doesn't sound like the kind to make you unhappy over it. But she did show a willingness to help when she agreed to go on the farm.

You were married to her 12 years and got along all that time. Isn't it worth a try at city life again? What if you do lose something? Which would you rather lose, money or your wife? That, of course, is up to you.

You want her to be contented. Perhaps it's you and not the farm that irks her. Perhaps you were a bit exacting and expected more than she could give you. At any rate you didn't make her happy. You were never rich and she clung to you for 12 years, so it couldn't have been poverty that made her go.

In cases like this, it's a very good idea to sit down and take personal inventory and find out what you did that was wrong. If you spend too much time hating your partner's faults you are more than likely to overlook the real answer to your difficulties.

I know you worked hard. You sound sincere, but you couldn't have given her more than the material comforts, because you ask for another wife, at once, and order her by mail from a stranger! John, John! And you say the wife who left you loafed, and liked the easy life. Then why did she agree to go to a farm where she had to pump water and cook on a poor stove and have nothing but you to amuse her? And now you say she's going to find a job and go to work.

I can't quite believe you are being altogether honest. Perhaps if you listen to her, she might help you to get into something where you could both be happy and together? Aren't you just a trifle hard headed John? I thought so. Why don't you get your wife to come back and try to readjust yourselves or get a job in town or do something that will make you both happy? After all a woman should have something to say if she is going to have to pump water and cook on what you call a "cool cook stove." Did you ever try to cook on one, John?

It seems to me you haven't much to lose if you get a job in town and both go to work for a while till you get set.

I'm afraid I can't sympathize much with a hard headed man who, when his wife leaves, writes me to send him another right away. You better go find the one who left you. Listen to her advice sometimes and make it a little bit more 50-50 and a little less 90-10 and I think you will make the grade.

EAST ROUND LAKE

Sunday guests at the Knowlton house were Mr. and Mrs. Addie of Aitkin, Mr. and Mrs. Whitson and son and his wife of Minneapolis, Mr. and Mrs. T. Blackburn of Brainerd and their daughter, Mrs. McLain of Washington.

Miss Jeppson of Bennettville was a week end guest at the Bert Scott home on Borden Lake.

Professor and Mrs. Finney were up to their cottage on Indian Ridge for the week end. They had as their dinner guests on Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Enger.

The fire warden rented Mrs. A. H. Barber's phone for the summer and will use it at the fire tower on Warren's hill.

Mr. Carlson installed a new lighting plant at his Arrowhead resort recently.

Mr. Nelson of Minneapolis was up to his new cottage on Indian Ridge. Mrs. J. N. Francis called on Mrs. A. R. Knowlton and Mrs. T. Enger on Wednesday. They called at the home of Mrs. A. H. Barber on Friday.

The fire was quite near the Linden House Thursday afternoon and the fire warden and neighbors were called out. They subdued the fire, but just in time as a few feet more it would have been in tall grass and with the wind blowing towards the buildings, it would have been impossible to do much to save them.

The wind has put the telephone line out of commission, making it impossible to get much news. There will be more next week.

1 MAN BURNED TO DEATH IN FOREST FIRES

Hagerstown, Md., April 21.—(U.P.)—One man was burned to death and two others were seriously injured by forest fires reported to have spread over 3,000 acres of land in this area.

John Leydig, 26, Hyndman, Pa., was burned to death. His brother, Irving, and Forest Warden Raymond Durley were removed to Cumberland hospital.

The fires burned throughout Washington county, Maryland, and destroyed more than a half dozen homes and valuable forest areas. Wardens reported that the fires had begun to cross over the Pennsylvania line.

What Is a Boy Scout? This Series Explains

(The Brainerd Dispatch has arranged to present a series of articles giving information concerning the Boy Scouts of America and of the Brainerd district. Look for these articles to learn the facts.)

The Drive Is On

The men on the committee are working hard to put it over. Have you done your bit?

Money depends on men. Its making and its morals are in the hands of men. Tomorrow these scouts will be our men. They will have to do with money. What will they do with it? They will be honest, straight, clean, because we are going to help them.

Community character depends on the character of its citizens. Tomorrow our boys will be our citizens. What kind of citizens will they be? They will be physically strong, mentally awake, morally straight—because we are going to help them.

Scouting Has Been Tested

It is an investment but not an expenditure.

It is no gold brick. No bluesky law restrains it. Your receipt for your subscription will not be a relic of folly.

It will be a souvenir that, in later days will make your dimming eyes glow with pride.

Some day you will sit and think of things done in making Brainerd and you will say: "Character and intelligence made that trail. It paid to put money into scouting."

Suppose you could raise your boy yourself. Could you do more than make him: physically strong, mentally awake, morally straight? Could you? How long are you going to keep him isolated? Sooner or later he must start out for himself. What then?

He may have learned to understand you. He has not thus learned to understand other boys. And they are the ones with whom he must later build his life. This is where scouting comes in.

Successful business men approve and endorse scouting.

Co-operation With Other Clubs for Our Youth

It is probably not generally known that the BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA co-operate with all upbuilding organizations. The camp of the Scouts is made available to the Camp Fire Girls every year if they wish to use it.

Exercise, Health from Home of Your Own

How many flat dwellers ever get out into the fresh air and sunshine?

How many men after a day at the desk, the store or the industrial plant ever take any brisk, invigorating, life-giving exercise in the open air as an antidote to the stuffy atmosphere, the cramped position and tense nerves of the modern business day, queries the American Lumberman.

It is said by observers of American life that one of its chief evils is a growing laziness, a tendency to sit rather than stand, to ride rather than walk, to take recreation vicariously through eye and ear rather than by actual use of legs or body muscles. One sits and reads, or sits and listens to the radio, or sits and watches somebody else doing something violently on screen or stage or at the ball park and is all tired out though he's scarce used a muscle. This growing tendency is believed to be having a seriously bad effect on the health of the nation. We are becoming a race of soft and flabby men and nervous, irritable women, they say.

The individual home is the great cure for this evil—the home owned by the people who live in it, set in a garden, with plenty of sunshine and fresh air and surrounded by eye-resting, soul-resting greenery. It is the solution to the exercise problem, the sunshine and vitamin problem, the problem of tired, strained eyesight and the problem of simple, fresh, healthful food.

A man won't take a walk after the day's work in the office. He may set out with a resolution to do so, but how boring it is, the walk for the sake of exercise! A movie looms before him and in he goes to sit and look.

The man who owns a home goes home to a peaceful, healthful, purposeful happiness that other men can never realize. His leisure moments are occupied in such ways as to bring him the blessings of health, comfort, serene nerves and a secure, hale and healthy old age. He works in his garden, or "fixes things" around the house and yard, doing the simple, natural homely things with his hands—the things that men have loved to do ever since the first one discovered that tickling the soil with a stick somehow made richer kernels.

The woman who is so fortunate as to have a house and garden to look after keeps busy, interested, young. She has no need of reducing diets or expensive patent exercisers. How foolish we are, in this generation, to strain every nerve to reach a point where we have nothing at all to do; to achieve the self-operating apartment, then have to buy something to exercise our muscles for us! No need of that for the woman who lives in a home of her own.

Neither does she need a nerve specialist. She comes into actual contact with the soil, she knows the fundamental realities of life. She knows life and death and taxes. She knows joy and sorrow and friendship, for she knows her neighbors and shares with them in all these things.

Hers is not a feverish, glamorous life of artificialities that pass away in a night. Hers is a life of usefulness and broad interest, of neighborly pleasures, of time to appreciate, to understand, to enjoy the lasting things of life.

How many discontented women are sitting around small apartments with nothing at all to do! Bored, tired, nerves on edge, not enough work to keep their blood in circulation, no interest in what they do have to do, for it is in a house that belongs to somebody else and they'll probably move in May, anyhow. How different is the lot of the woman whose interest is in a home where she can do whatever she likes and has the blessed sense of permanency.

And for the children! What a great thing it is for a child to have a home! A place to run and play out of danger from the passing cars; a place to sing and roll on the grass, to pull weeds and poke fingers into fresh, moist earth; to learn the joy of planting seeds and watching new life push its way to the sunlight; a place where young muscles can stretch, where young bodies can soak up the life-giving rays of the sun, where young eyes feast on the loveliest of colors, nature's own; where young minds begin to understand life. Even more blessed is the child who has an attic for a rainy day, and he who has a room sacred to childhood where childish treasures are kept.

What a fine race we would grow in this broad land of ours if every one of the new generation could live in a home set in a garden, learning to do things with his hands—the simple, useful, good things that bring health to the body and peace to the mind and soul of man!

Aiding Needy Veterans

How a little fund started years ago by Dr. Helen Hughes Hiescher of Mankato, first state president of the American Legion Auxiliary, has been continually revolving ever since, each dollar helping many a needy veteran in that period, is told by Mrs. Ann Gibbon of Minneapolis, state chairman of the American Legion Auxiliary rural activities committee.

"When a veteran who has received a loan from this fund, without interest, repays it, it is again loaned to another needy comrade," Mrs. Gibbon says. "The families benefited, live in the rural districts and the larger cities. Usually they have been stricken by unexpected illness and other expenses that eat up all their surplus cash.

"Without a little help, they would have to give up their farms. That is where the American Legion Auxiliary revolving fund comes in. It is also used to help veterans buy cows, chickens, sheep, bees, horses or some other addition that will help the family to become self-supporting. The money is paid back in small monthly installments and loaned again to other veterans.

"I have found that our 400 Minnesota Legion Auxiliary units are wonderfully generous in helping these families in other ways, such as supplying warm clothing, household necessities, clothing for the children, and other things which enable our committee to care for the families of service men who are making a brave struggle to become self-supporting citizens of their communities."

Dear Sir:

Last Saturday afternoon during the very severe and dreadful looking storm, my children had gone to the Paramount theatre to see the show. I hurried over to the theatre to get them, but when I got there, my fears were very much relieved as I noted the care that was being given them and it was surprising how few of them really knew what was going on outside and all the fun they were having while the lights were off; the manager and ushers were patrolling the aisles and the children were having the time of their life. Telephone calls and personal visits from parents were plentiful. The awful part of it all was the lack of control over these grown-ups in rushing in and shouting their children's names in their efforts to find them, and the telephone requests to have their children come home just when the storm was at its height.

I personally stayed there all afternoon and I am deeply appreciative for not only my children's sake, but for all the other children in there as to the wonderful treatment given them when it seemed every adult in town was so panicked.

I would appreciate having you publish this so that other mothers and fathers will know what was being done at a time when, no doubt, they were all very worried.

Yours very truly,
WALTER L. ATWATER.

Believe It Or Not--In Morocco

"Believe It Or Not," but Robert L. Ripley on his expedition in Morocco has come across many strange scenes and witnessed many strange customs, from the venerated worshippers of Sidi Yahia, near Oujda, where pious Mohammedans have worn away the head part of the sarcophagus with kisses, down to the quaint Hay Stack people of Settatt, with whom the well-known cartoonist is pictured above.

BEGGAR BY DAY, HE WAS SULTAN IN CAVE HAREM

Modern Jekyll and Hyde in Mexico Is Cared Through Jealousy of Woman.

Mexico City.—A crippled beggar on the streets by day and a sultan in his underground harem by night was the double role lived for years by an Inca resident of Coyocan until he was betrayed through a jealous woman.

Jose Ramirez, now called "Don Juan of the Wondrous Court," was a successful beggar. But the man was ambitious and not satisfied with the results of his own efforts. So, having chafed for the fair sex, he capitalized his attractions and enlisted in his service of begging six of his feminine admirers. These he sent into the streets for alms and at night they returned to share his caresses and to deliver their collections.

The court of the "beggar-sultan," who found himself envied by the contributions of his helpers, was maintained in a degree of elegance not compatible with his means of livelihood in a cave near the town. Here he dropped his pose of a cripple and lived in comfort.

Friction arose in the harem because Ramirez failed to divide his attention equally and the slighted woman betrayed him to the police.

Officials visited the cave and ended Ramirez' game. The "cripple" fled from the police. His companions were held.

Builds Telescope Out of Plumbing Supplies

Pittsburgh.—Tools and materials used in his work as a plumber, have aided Leo Scanlon, twenty-seven, to build a telescope recently dedicated. Plumbing pipes, brass tubing, elbows and metal from discarded water tanks are combined in the scientific instrument.

An observatory to house the telescope also is completed and will be the headquarters of a group of amateur students of stars. Scanlon was the guiding genius behind the erection of the observatory telescope. He was an organizer of the astronomical section of the academy of science and art at Carnegie Institute.

The eyes of professional astronomers have turned with interest to the homemade telescope. Dr. Frank C. Jordan, director of the Allegheny observatory, and John W. Fecker, professional telescope maker, are to attend the dedication services and test the instrument.

The telescope has a 10-inch lens, which magnifies the stars nearly 400 times their size as seen by the naked eye.

Cuban Army Officer Perfects New Bomb

Havana.—A new type of bomb for airplanes, invented by Lieut. Florindo Fernandez Prelio, explosive expert of the Cuban army, uses a novel explosive compound made up of chlorate of potash and sugar.

The bomb is the result of more than two years of experimenting. It weighs eighteen pounds, of which three are the explosive charge. Recent tests made by one of the army planes at an altitude of 1,500 feet resulted in ripping the center of the ground target four feet in diameter and one foot wide.

Origin of "Mugwump"

The word "mugwump" cannot be said to have been coined. It is an Indian word, meaning leader or big chief. Eliot used it in translating the Bible into an Indian tongue. It became a political term in the 1884 elections.

Exercise, Health from Home of Your Own

How many flat dwellers ever get out into the fresh air and sunshine?

How many men after a day at the desk, the store or the industrial plant ever take any brisk, invigorating, life-giving exercise in the open air as an antidote to the stuffy atmosphere, the cramped position and tense nerves of the modern business day, queries the American Lumberman.

It is said by observers of American life that one of its chief evils is a growing laziness, a tendency to sit rather than stand, to ride rather than walk, to take recreation vicariously through eye and ear rather than by actual use of legs or body muscles. One sits and reads, or sits and listens to the radio, or sits and watches somebody else doing something violently on screen or stage or at the ball park and is all tired out though he's scarce used a muscle. This growing tendency is believed to be having a seriously bad effect on the health of the nation. We are becoming a race of soft and flabby men and nervous, irritable women, they say.

The individual home is the great cure for this evil—the home owned by the people who live in it, set in a garden, with plenty of sunshine and fresh air and surrounded by eye-resting, soul-resting greenery. It is the solution to the exercise problem, the sunshine and vitamin problem, the problem of tired, strained eyesight and the problem of simple, fresh, healthful food.

A man won't take a walk after the day's work in the office. He may set out with a resolution to do so, but how boring it is, the walk for the sake of exercise! A movie looms before him and in he goes to sit and look.

The man who owns a home goes home to a peaceful, healthful, purposeful happiness that other men can never realize. His leisure moments are occupied in such ways as to bring him the blessings of health, comfort, serene nerves and a secure, hale and healthy old age. He works in his garden, or "fixes things" around the house and yard, doing the simple, natural homely things with his hands—the things that men have loved to do ever since the first one discovered that tickling the soil with a stick somehow made richer kernels.

The woman who is so fortunate as to have a house and garden to look after keeps busy, interested, young. She has no need of reducing diets or expensive patent exercisers. How foolish we are, in this generation, to strain every nerve to reach a point where we have nothing at all to do; to achieve the self-operating apartment, then have to buy something to exercise our muscles for us! No need of that for the woman who lives in a home of her own.

Neither does she need a nerve specialist. She comes into actual contact with the soil, she knows the fundamental realities of life. She knows life and death and taxes. She knows joy and sorrow and friendship, for she knows her neighbors and shares with them in all these things.

Hers is not a feverish, glamorous life of artificialities that pass away in a night. Hers is a life of usefulness and broad interest, of neighborly pleasures, of time to appreciate, to understand, to enjoy the lasting things of life.

How many discontented women are sitting around small apartments with nothing at all to do! Bored, tired, nerves on edge, not enough work to keep their blood in circulation, no interest in what they do have to do, for it is in a house that belongs to somebody else and they'll probably move in May, anyhow. How different is the lot of the woman whose interest is in a home where she can do whatever she likes and has the blessed sense of permanency.

And for the children! What a great thing it is for a child to have a home! A place to run and play out of danger from the passing cars; a place to sing and roll on the grass, to pull weeds and poke fingers into fresh, moist earth; to learn the joy of planting seeds and watching new life push its way to the sunlight; a place where young muscles can stretch, where young bodies can soak up the life-giving rays of the sun, where young eyes feast on the loveliest of colors, nature's own; where young minds begin to understand life. Even more blessed is the child who has an attic for a rainy day, and he who has a room sacred to childhood where childish treasures are kept.

What a fine race we would grow in this broad land of ours if every one of the new generation could live in a home set in a garden, learning to do things with his hands—the simple, useful, good things that bring health to the body and peace to the mind and soul of man!

Aiding Needy Veterans

How a little fund started years ago by Dr. Helen Hughes Hielscher of Mankato, first state president of the American Legion Auxiliary, has been continually revolving ever since, each dollar helping many a needy veteran in that period, is told by Mrs. Ann Gibbon of Minneapolis, state chairman of the American Legion Auxiliary rural activities committee.

"When a veteran who has received a loan from this fund, without interest, repays it, it is again loaned to another needy comrade," Mrs. Gibbon says. "The families benefited, live in the rural districts and the larger cities. Usually they have been stricken by unexpected illness and other expenses that eat up all their surplus cash.

"Without a little help, they would have to give up their farms. That is where the American Legion Auxiliary revolving fund comes in. It is also used to help veterans buy cows, chickens, sheep, bees, horses or some other addition that will help the family to become self-supporting. The money is paid back in small monthly installments and loaned again to other veterans.

"I have found that our 400 Minnesota Legion Auxiliary units are wonderfully generous in helping these families in other ways, such as supplying warm clothing, household necessities, clothing for the children, and other things which enable our committee to care for the families of service men who are making a brave struggle to become self-supporting citizens of their communities."

Dear Sir:
Last Saturday afternoon during the very severe and dreadful looking storm, my children had gone to the Paramount theatre to see the show. I hurried over to the theatre to get them, but when I got there, my fears were very much relieved as I noted the care that was being given them and it was surprising how few of them really knew what was going on outside and all the fun they were having while the lights were off; the manager and ushers were patrolling the aisles and the children were having the time of their life. Telephone calls and personal visits from parents were plentiful. The awful part of it all was the lack of control over these grown-ups in rushing in and shouting their children's names in their efforts to find them, and the telephone requests to have their children come home just when the storm was at its height.

I personally stayed there all afternoon and I am deeply appreciative for not only my children's sake, but for all the other children in there as to the wonderful treatment given them when it seemed every adult in town was so panicky.

I would appreciate having you publish this so that other mothers and fathers will know what was being done at a time when, no doubt, they were all very worried.

Yours very truly,
WALTER L. ATWATER.

Believe It Or Not--In Morocco

"Believe It or Not," but Robert L. Ripley on his expedition in Morocco has come across many strange scenes and witnessed many strange customs. From the venerated worshippers of Sidi Yahia, near Oujda, where pious Mohammedans have worn away the head part of the sarcophagus with kisses, down to the quaint Hay Stack people of Settatt, with whom the well-known cartoonist is pictured above.

BEGGAR BY DAY, HE WAS SULTAN IN CAVE HAREM

Modern Jekyll and Hyde in Mexico Is Bored Through Jealousy of Woman.

Mexico City.—A crippled beggar on the streets by day and a sultan in his underground harem by night was the double role lived for years by an ingenious resident of Coahuila until he was betrayed through a jealous woman.

Jose Ramirez, now called "Don Juan of the Wondrous Court," was a successful beggar. But the man was ambitious and not satisfied with the results of his own efforts. So, having chafed for the fair sex, he capitalized his attractions and enlisted in his service of begging six of his feminine admirers. These he sent into the streets for alms and at night they returned to share his caresses and to deliver their collections.

The court of the "beggar-sultan," who found himself enriched by the contributions of his helpers, was maintained in a degree of elegance not compatible with his means of livelihood in a cave near the town. Here he dropped his pose of a cripple and lived in comfort.

Friction arose in the harem because Ramirez failed to divide his attention equally and the slighted woman betrayed him to the police.

Officials visited the cave and ended Ramirez' game. The "cripple" fled from the police. His companions were held.

Builds Telescope Out of Plumbing Supplies

Pittsburgh.—Tools and materials used in his work as a plumber, have aided Leo Scanlon, twenty-seven, to build a telescope recently dedicated. Plumbing pipes, brass tubing, elbows and metal from discarded water tanks are combined in the scientific instrument.

An observatory to house the telescope also is completed and will be the headquarters of a group of amateur students of stars. Scanlon was the guiding genius behind the erection of the observatory telescope. He was an organizer of the astronomical section of the academy of science and art of Carnegie's institute.

The eyes of professional astronomers have turned with interest to the homemade telescope. Dr. Frank C. Jordan, director of the Allegheny observatory, and John W. Fecker, professional telescope maker, are to attend the dedication services and test the instrument.

The telescope has a 10-inch lens, which magnifies the stars nearly 400 times their size as seen by the naked eye.

Cuban Army Officer Perfects New Bomb

Havana.—A new type of bomb for airplanes, invented by Lieut. Florindo Fernandez Prelio, explosive expert of the Cuban army, uses a novel explosive compound made up of chlorate of potash and sugar.

The bomb is the result of more than two years of experimenting. It weighs eighteen pounds, of which three are the explosive charge. Recent tests made by one of the army planes at an altitude of 1,500 feet resulted in ripping the center of the ground target four feet in diameter and one foot wide.

Origin of "Mugwump"

The word "mugwump" cannot be said to have been coined. It is an Indian word, meaning leader or big chief. Eliot used it in translating the Bible into an Indian tongue. It became a political term in the 1884 elections.

NOTRE DAME NAMES HARPER AS DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

WAS ONCE HEAD FOOTBALL COACH

BEFORE ROCKNE

HARPER TAKES OVER HIS NEW DUTIES AT SCHOOL ON MAY 1

WILL DO NO COACHING, BUT SUPERVISE DIRECTION OF ALL ATHLETICS
By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, April 21.—Notre Dame has completed its organization to carry on the work of the late Knute K. Rockne with the appointment of Jesse C. Harper as director of athletics.

Harper, who was head football coach at Notre Dame for five years before Rockne succeeded him, will take over his new duties May 1. He will do no coaching, but will supervise the direction of all athletics.

The coaching jobs will remain in the hands of the men already selected: football, Harty (Hunk) Anderson, senior coach, and Jack Chevigny, junior coach; basketball and baseball, George E. Keogan; track, John P. Nicholson.

Harper has not been in direct contact with athletics since he resigned at Notre Dame in 1918, but he always maintained a keen interest in them.

During the last football season, Rockne and Harper were perhaps closer together than for a number of years. Harper attended the Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech football game at South Bend as Rockne's guest. Afterward he jokingly remarked:

"Knute, you make me look worse every year."

It was Harper who first brought the shift to Notre Dame when he became head coach in 1913. He learned

THREE ROOKIES WELL UP IN MAJOR LEAGUE HITTING

STATISTICS ARE COMPILED BY THE UNITED PRESS

CLOSE OF FIRST WEEK OF PLAY IN 1931 PENNANT CAMPAIGNS

VOSMIK, LEVEY, WALKER FINISH AMONG LEADING FIRST FIVE

By DIXON STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, April 21.—Three rookies were among the five leading major league hitters at the close of the first week of play in the 1931 pennant campaigns, statistics compiled today by the United Press revealed.

The first week of competition closed yesterday with Joe Vosmik, 20-year-old Cleveland outfielder, leading the batters with a percentage of .636. Vosmik, whom the Indians picked up from the Cleveland sandlots, has hit safely 14 times in his 22 trips to the plate. Included among his hits are five doubles, two triples, one home run and six singles.

James Levey, shortstop for the St. Louis Browns, and Harvey Walker, Detroit outfielder, are the other men facing major league pitching for the first time who finished among the first five.

Levey, who was with Wichita Falls last season, has an average of .450 for third place. He has been at bat 20 times and has nine hits to his credit. His batting has been the feature of the Browns' play thus far.

Walker, who played with Evansville in the Three-Eye League part of last season, has a mark of .444 for a tie for fourth and fifth place with Oscar Melillo of the St. Louis Browns. Walker has hit safely eight times in 18 times at bat.

Charles Berry, Boston Red Sox catcher, ranks second to Vosmik. He is hitting an average of .529. He has been at bat 17 times and has rapped out nine hits.

Levey is tied with five other players for first place in the number of runs batted in with eight. The other men are Spencer, Washington; L. Sewell, Cleveland; Sheeley, Boston Braves; Hartnett, Chicago Cubs; and Wilson, St. Louis Cardinals.

In addition to leading the batters, Vosmik tops the list in number of hits. His 14 safe blows gives him an advantage of two over Lindstrom of the New York Giants and Gehring of the Detroit Tigers.

Yesterday's Hero is Babe Ruth with Two Homers for Yankees

Yesterday's hero—Babe Ruth, whose two home runs gave the New York Yankees a 5 to 4 victory over the world champion Philadelphia Athletics. Ruth is now tied with Chuck Klein of the Philadelphia Phillies and Johnny Stone of the Detroit Tigers for the major league home run leadership with three each.

Rear Rabbits for Wool, New Oregon Industry

Olympia, Wash.—Baby Bunting's rabbit skin has now developed into rabbits' wool for aviators and airplane passengers' clothing. An Oregon mill has been turning out something new in yarn, the first of its kind produced in the United States, from the wool sheared from Angora rabbits.

The material is expensive but is eight times warmer than ordinary wool and equal to fur in extreme weather conditions.

Growers receive from $3.50 to $7 per pound for the rabbit wool, according to length of pelage. Sheared rabbits will again grow more wool.

Berets, blankets, shawls, sweaters, hoods, mitts and socks for airplane service are made of the new fluffy cloth. A rabbit will produce about 12 ounces of wool in a year.

Cassins

The leaves of the cassia, a type of holly tree, are rich in caffeine, and, properly prepared, make a palatable drink. The tree grows along the coast from Virginia to Texas. The beverage is made from the dried leaves, but is brewed more like coffee, by boiling for two minutes or percolating for five minutes.

SEVEN years ago Benny Leonard retired, the undefeated world's lightweight champion, and, ever since, the Jewish fight fans (of which there are hundreds of thousands in New York City) have been looking hopefully for his successor in popularity. It seemed for a time as though Al Singer was the lineal heir, especially when he won Leonard's former title by stopping Sammy Mandell in less than a round last Summer. But about four months later Tony Canzoneri knocked out Singer in the opening session, a few weeks after Jimmy McLarnin had scored a K.O. over Al in an overweight match. Previously, Leonard himself had hailed Singer as a real champ. But Al went blotto soon after that. He just couldn't stand the hard going, it seems, and that was the fault which ruined such other promising New York ring lights as Sid Terris and Ruby Goldstein. How those Ghetto whirlwinds could shine against second raters, but when Sid collided with McLarnin and the Ruby, Ace Hudkins, they were floundering in rag fashion as soon as the thumping got too rough.

How the Ghetto glorying in the Leonards, Leach Crosses, Bernsteins and their rugged ilk of the past—mourn the fragility of Singer, Terris and Goldstein, who flame only to crumble before the onslaughts of tougher battlers! Al could hit magnificently, Sid was a boxing wiz, and Ruby could do both, but—none of them could take it when clashing with real class. And now—

The Ghetto is watching hopefully the career of Ben Jeby, middleweight, whose most important feat thus far was a clear cut win over Len Harvey, British champion. Vince Dundee had won two somewhat questionable decisions over the skilled Englishman, but few conceded the rather green Jeby a chance against the experienced Harvey. However, Ben gave Len a convincing beating, during which he proved, in part, that he could stand a gruelling pace. Jeby looms as a Ghetto boy who is rugged enough to take it, and so his backers are expecting that he may yet prove that he merits mention in the same breath with Benny Leonard.

NOTRE DAME NAMES HARPER AS DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

WAS ONCE HEAD FOOTBALL COACH BEFORE ROCKNE

HARPER TAKES OVER HIS NEW DUTIES AT SCHOOL ON MAY 1

WILL DO NO COACHING, BUT SUPERVISE DIRECTION OF ALL ATHLETICS
By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, April 21.—Notre Dame has completed its organization to carry on the work of the late Knute K. Rockne with the appointment of Jesse C. Harper as director of athletics.

Harper, who was head football coach at Notre Dame for five years before Rockne succeeded him, will take over his new duties May 1. He will do no coaching, but will supervise the direction of all athletics.

The coaching jobs will remain in the hands of the men already selected: football, Harty (Hunk) Anderson, senior coach, and Jack Chevigny, junior coach; basketball and baseball, George E. Keogan; track, John P. Nicholson.

Harper has not been in direct contact with athletics since he resigned at Notre Dame in 1918, but he always maintained a keen interest in them.

During the last football season, Rockne and Harper were perhaps closer together than for a number of years. Harper attended the Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech football game at South Bend as Rockne's guest. Afterward he jokingly remarked:

"Knute, you make me look worse every year."

It was Harper who first brought the shift to Notre Dame when he became head coach in 1913. He learned the shift from A. A. Stagg when he played halfback at the University of Chicago. It was Harper who introduced the forward pass into the game as a real offensive weapon.

Harper's first Notre Dame team, with Rockne as captain and end and Charles Borais as quarterback, won the first major intercollegiate victory for the west over the east by defeating Army, 35-13, in 1913.

In five years as football coach Harper's teams won 33 games and lost five. Army and Nebraska beat the Irish twice and Yale once during Harper's regime.

When Harper retired he wanted either Rockne or Dorais to succeed him. The pair planned to settle it by tossing a coin, but Rockne married and Dorais gracefully withdrew from the running.

CLOSE OF FIRST WEEK OF PLAY IN 1931 PENNANT CAMPAIGNS

VOSMIK, LEVEY, WALKER FINISH AMONG LEADING FIRST FIVE
By DIXON STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, April 21.—Three rookies were among the five leading major league hitters at the close of the first week of play in the 1931 pennant campaigns, statistics compiled today by the United Press revealed.

The first week of competition closed yesterday with Joe Vosmik, 20-year-old Cleveland outfielder, leading the batters with a percentage of .636. Vosmik, whom the Indians picked up from the Cleveland sandlots, has hit safely 14 times in his 22 trips to the plate. Included among his hits are five doubles, two triples, one home run and six singles.

James Levey, shortstop for the St. Louis Browns, and Harvey Walker, Detroit outfielder, are the other men facing major league pitching for the first time who finished among the first five.

Levey, who was with Wichita Falls last season, has an average of .450 for third place. He has been at bat 20 times and has nine hits to his credit. His batting has been the feature of the Browns' play thus far.

Walker, who played with Evansville in the Three-Eye League part of last season, has a mark of .444 for a tie for fourth and fifth place with Oscar Melillo of the St. Louis Browns. Walker has hit safely eight times in 18 times at bat.

Charles Berry, Boston Red Sox catcher, ranks second to Vosmik. He is hitting an average of .529. He has been at bat 17 times and has rapped out nine hits.

Levey is tied with five other players for first place in the number of runs batted in with eight. The other men are Spencer, Washington; L. Sewell, Cleveland; Sheeley, Boston Braves; Hartnett, Chicago Cubs; and Wilson, St. Louis Cardinals.

In addition to leading the batters, Vosmik tops the list in number of hits. His 14 safe blows gives him an advantage of two over Lindstrom of the New York Giants and Gehring of the Detroit Tigers.

MEMORIES of Babe Ruth in his youthful home run days were revived last season at Boston and elsewhere when "Wally" Berger, Brave recruit, began to lash 'em into the bleachers with a frequency that finally brought his 1930 circuit clout total to 38. Berger is a smart outfielder with a Ruthian knack of knocking 'em "high, wide and handsome." Indeed, his slugging was the Hub's chief baseball feature all last year and fans there expect him to be even better this season.

Now that they are both with the same major league club, there's to be the keenest sort of rivalry between these up-an'-comin' sluggers.

Berger hit for .310 in 154 games in 1930 and fielded for .966. With the Coast "Angels," Schulmerich batted .380 in 189 games, accumulating 28 homers. The latter was urged by some to take up professional wrestling

(he's a compact Carnera and can grunt, if necessary!), but the lure of a big league trial has taken Wes from toss-and-tumble mats for a time at least.
Of course, Schulmerich's old side-kick—the bustin' Berger—is delighted to rejoin his congenial bukie. What a pair of football guards, Wally and Wes would make—the former's 6-foot-2 and weighs 198; the latter's 5-11 and points the scales at 210!
The Braves' chances for the pennant seem as dim as they were in 1914, the miracle year, but such high-powered into-the-stands hitters as Berger and Schulmerich ought to give the fans many a real thrill throughout the season all over the game's senior circuit.

JUNIOR-SENIOR PROM WILL FOLLOW IN ANNUAL IN MODERNISTIC TREND

CLASS TO SELL CANDY SENIOR DRESS UP DAY TO INCREASE FINANCES

During the last junior meeting held Monday morning in the auditorium final preparations for the prom were discussed, committees were chosen and money matters were settled along with other plans for additional entertainment before the close of the school year.

Gathering both juniors and seniors together Miss Torgerson made an appeal for more subscriptions on the new 1931 annual, telling how valuable a treasure these beautiful remembrances are in after school life.

Succeeding the general meeting the junior class had a private meeting in which the date for the Junior-Senior prom was set for Saturday, May 3. The time and arrangements were all to be decided by a committee. Class members desiring to attend the prom must be paid up on their dues and be signed up before Friday, May 15.

Following tradition the junior class will sell candy in school during senior dress up day which is this coming Friday. Contributions of home made candy are expected from juniors, this candy is to be handed in by Friday morning. Ice cream bars and candy bars are also to be sold on the first and second floors.

The suggestion was made and approved that the juniors have a private picnic some time in the near future. The date and place are to be decided by a committee. The following committee is to be general supervisor of the prom: John Folsom, Lyle Anderson, Parker Campbell, Clara Grimstead, Fanny Quinlen, Barbara Zapfe and Drexel Geist.

This committee decided on a modernistic idea for decorations, thus following the plan of the '31 annual.

Evelyn Foster, Leona Schubert, Frances Peterson and Dorothy Opsahl will plan the banquet menu which is to be prepared by Miss Filk and served in the cafeteria. Further arrangements will be announced later.

The picnic committees are as follows:
 Food—Esther Klienschmidt, Elaine Cook and Marguerite Lind.
 Arrangement—Bob Wygle, Leslie Dryburgh and Joe Marchel.
 These committees decide the date and place for the picnic and arrange for cars.
 The committee in charge of the candy sale, choosing sellers etc., consists of Frances Reese and Robert Crust.

PAT'S PATTTER

Dearest Roberta:
 Hello, dearie. How's tricks? They're not bad here. That is, things are picking up. (Don't take me literally, really I'm not that kind of a girl.)

At the end of every year, there is always a rush of things that is quite absorbing, but this year for me especially. A senior always tries to crowd scholastic entertainment, athletics and clubs into his last year; because when he leaves the good old fold, life isn't quite such a colt's gallop.

If I keep that up, I'll get philosophical so I'll try to tell you about some of a senior's "cares."

First of all, our play. Every senior dreams from freshman days for the time when he can try out for, or succeed in obtaining a part for this play. It's loads of fun and oodles of work but it's a senior triumph.

Next, our Brainierd Annual. We seniors are responsible for the writing up, publishing and distributing of our dear old year book.

Of course, the prom isn't our official worry but we fret ourselves grey over clothes, partners, etc., for this occasion from the beginning of the school year.

Besides these our various parties and jolly get-togethers must be planned and executed to smooth out the lines on our young faces. And these lines are caused by the grilling necessary to get all our credits for graduation.

Commencement, bachelorette and class day require a lot of thought and planning. Senior dress-up day and the vovdyl are regular sharks for work but, oh, the rewards.

Declamation, commercial contests, athletics and all the other contests require study and time. Our clubs are a source of lots of fun but are allotted time also.

Outside of that there isn't anything to do but I managed to squeeze in a little spare for a picnic and swim the other day. (I had to take up my bluff from last issue) Br! It won't be long now.

So Long,
 Pat

Have you noticed the long faces around school today? No, it wasn't that any beloved instructor had died, or anything like that. Just another report card day. Every six weeks we have a "blue Tuesday." No one thinks of parties, or tomorrow night's date, or spends an hour watching the assembly clock. There is a feverish enthusiasm in studying which, strangely enough, vanishes after a few short days. But on this red letter day, (well named) when we discover that our Social Science teacher has not fallen for our bluffing, and that the Vergil instructor was serious when she said we had to hand in our translations, ambition inspires us to all sorts of firm, studious, resolutions. Perhaps if report cards had to be shown to parents oftener, more consistent effort would be expended. It is a strange coincidence that during that period between the issuances of report cards, this enthusiasm waxes considerably, but appears again at the beginning of another six weeks. If students only knew, their slump would be much less distasteful coming at the end of the six weeks instead of in the middle, when instructors mark the closest. But that's just one of the little secrets the faculty does not choose to impart to laggards, who must go on getting poor marks as they refuse to do any conscientious studying.

TRI-HI DELEGATES

ATTEND CONCLAVE

OFFICERS TO ORGANIZE CHAPTER AMONG GIRLS IN WILLMAR

Among the various things decided upon during the past few weeks by the Tri-Hi Club are the Tri-Hi Service Shield, Tri-Hi play, trip to Willmar, and a discussion meeting which was held a week ago.

The most important item was the selection of a Senior member of the club whose name would adorn the Tri-Hi Service Shield. All Seniors who were club members were eligible but Louise Clausen, the president, was chosen. She is to have the honor of being the first girl to have her name placed upon the shield. The requirements were: leadership, scholarship, character and work done for betterment of club. Louise, qualifying in all these, was selected by a majority of the members.

Next in importance (especially to those who are going) is the trip to Willmar. The purpose of this trip is to install the officers of the New Tri-Hi Club of Willmar. The four officers, namely, Louise Clausen, Anna Casa, Murrell Goederz, and Amy Markham are being driven down by Ted Frank with the chaplainage of Mrs. Penrose. Tri-Hi advisor, Hildegard Holm and Marie Thore are also going down to the installation services.

Among the various things planned for their entertainment are a banquet, special presentation of the Senior Class play, different discussion groups, and the installation services. Altogether the delegates expect a very enjoyable time.

"Sing a Song of Seniors" was the play selected to be presented by the club May 8th, as an assembly program. The various parts are taken by Dorothy Kinney, Amy Markham, Janet Kampmann, Doris Geist, Mae McQuillan and Kathleen Cardie. It is a very clever skit which is assured of very much appreciation by the high school students.

Under the chairman, Marguerite Lind, a delicious supper of rice potatoes, beef stew, beans, salad and cake was prepared by Murrell Goederz, Margaret Graff, Marie Hoffbauer, Florence Tollefson and Midge Peterson. After the meal, a discussion was held by those who wished to remain regarding a very interesting question which compared the girl of today and yesterday.

Teachers' Training Class Sees Preview of 'Skippy'

The students of the Teacher Training Department were guests of Mr. Greenburg at the Paramount Theatre yesterday morning when a preview of "Skippy" to be scheduled here soon, was shown.

The play is of a very superior type and was greatly appreciated from a psychological standpoint as well as for its extremely fine analysis of the humor and pathos of human life.

The department feels exceedingly grateful to Mr. Greenburg for his kind invitation.

WEEZY'S SNEEZES

"What's your idea of a good girl to take to the prom?"

S. P.: "Well, she must dislike flowers, have her own car, and afterwards be just too excited to eat."

Carl H.: "I'm a self-made man."
 Eliz. I.: "Well, I'm glad to see you take the blame for something."

Mr. Penrose: "What's an imbecile?"
 A. V. W.: "Me?"
 Mr. P.: "Yes, now name one more."

BRAINERD WINS MOST POINTS AT DIST. COMM. MEET

SEVEN TOWNS REPRESENTED IN CONTEST FETED BY HIGH SCHOOL

At the District Typing Contest held Saturday at the high school, seven towns participated, namely: Bemidji, Staples, Aitkin, Crosby, Park Rapids and Brainerd. The contest was divided into three divisions, beginning and advanced typing, and shorthand in which Brainerd took no first places but scored the highest number of points. The honors in beginning typing went to Merle Bryant of Bemidji who took first place with Olive Hemsworth and Florence Jones of Brainerd in second and third places respectively. In advanced typing Ethel La Due of Park Rapids won first place. Local honor goes to Marie Hoffbauer who scored second with Dorothy Sim, the Aitkin contestant, coming in third. Brainerd didn't take any places in shorthand as Helen Elzler of Staples, Clara Peterson of Crosby, and Violet Bueckman of Aitkin won honors and the chance to attend the State Typing Contest in two weeks.

The State Typing Contest entitles the winners of the first three places to compete with the winners from other districts in about two weeks, when it is hoped Brainerd will take a high place.

Besides the contest a luncheon was held for the 60 out-of-town guests in the cafeteria where the guests partook of a delicious luncheon prepared by Miss Filk. To break the tension of the contest a program was given consisting of community singing, a song novelty, and a dance and song skit. Helen Sheets and Eddie Jernberg gave the song "You're the One I Care For" in a very clever manner. To repeated applause they gave "Gee, But I'd Like to Make You Happy." Bernice Steinfeldt closed the program with the song "Dream a Little Dream of Me."

At the business meeting it was again decided to hold next year's contest at Brainerd with Miss Lord acting as general chairman.

BEAUTY OPERATOR TALKS TO C. F. G.

MRS. LAWRENCE ERICKSON TELLS GIRLS OF BEAUTY OPERATING

Mrs. Lawrence Erickson of the "Ruth Beauty Salon" spoke to the Netoppew girls at the last meeting. She spoke on various lines of her work, especially about hair dressing, and the caring for the complexion, and willingly answered all questions concerning personal beauties which the girls were interested in. Bernice Steinfeldt who had recently read about the Beauty Convention held at Chicago, expressed interest for face-lifting. It was suggested, however, that it was better to retain her natural beauty by following the simple health and beauty rules.

Bernice Steinfeldt gave a reading, "Humoresque."

Lela Shobe gave a special report on the International Garden which is to be built between the U. S. and Canada to symbolize peace which has existed between the U. S. and Canada for more than a hundred years. This beautiful garden is to cover over 1,000 acres of land. It is in contrast to the borders of other countries which are protected by arms and ammunition.

The only similar monument is the "State of Christ" in the Andes Mountains of South America which symbolizes peace established by the neighboring countries.

Marion Rau, a friend of Lela Shobe, was a visitor at the meeting.

Comm. Classes Present Assembly Program

As a climax to a most successful year the commercial department presented a varied program to the student body Friday morning.

Following a delightful piano solo, "To Spring," rendered by Arline Hagberg, a novel typing stunt was given by the beginning and advanced typing classes: Dorothy Opsahl, Marguerite Lind, Edman Jernberg, Frances Peterson, Evelyn Foster, Ray Wareing, Helen Sheets, Lucile Erickson, Mildred Johnson, Marie Hoffbauer, Louise Clausen and Evelyn Loom. Alta Creger, accompanied by Evelyn Loom at the piano, tap-danced before the assembly.

A play, "A Saturday Morning in the Office," was well performed by the following cast: Lee Clarkson, Howard Storm, Fay Rosina, Doris Geist, Robert Hanson, Lyle Creger, Fred Mraz, Florence Jones, Evelyn Loom and Leo Turcotte. The play was directed by the instructors, Miss Ruthe, Miss Lord and Miss Torgerson. Stage properties were handled by Arthur Hedlund, Jim Garvey and Joe Marchel.

This is taken from the Tech High literary issue:

Education Defined
 Out of diverse opinions on the ever-increasing subject of education has come what promises to be a worth while thought. President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University has given a definition of education which deserves commendation.

According to him education is a combination of: the ability to use the language of your country correctly, good manners, power of reflection, with an inquiring mind, power of mental growth from birth to death, and possession of power and efficiency.

Mr. Butler asserts that with these qualifications as a basis, anyone skilled in scholarship, literary power, mechanical skill, professional capacity, business competence, social leadership, or political leadership will be truly educated.

The Freshman issue of the Lincoln Torch was printed on green paper (for St. Patrick's, of course). It was the first Freshman issue ever published in Lincoln high school. We are sure that the editor's desire that it would appeal to the readers is fulfilled.

To make their appearance as effective as their singing, the girls' glee club of St. Cloud High, entering the State Music Contest, are to be in uniform dress.

NOVEL CONTRACT USED IN LATIN

ORIGINAL PROJECTS DONE BY EACH STUDENT; CLEVER RESULTS OBTAINED

Special contract work in Vergil was used as the basis of six weeks marks in preference to the usual six weeks examinations. This basis of grading is possible in the Vergil class because there are only five students who are all capable of doing a work. When all the contract work is completed it will be typed and compiled into a notebook as the class' tribute to Vergil, the greatest of all Roman poets.

One assignment has been turned in so far by each student. Bernice Steinfeldt has written a dedication in Latin to Publius Marius Vergil, the author of the Aeneid, which the Vergil class is studying. Stuart Patterson has completed an account of the actions of Aeneas and his personal reactions toward the man. Esther Kukkola's conception of a diary, which Dido might have written was very cleverly done and showed much thought. Clara Grimstad expressed her ideas of Aeneas in a poem called "Aeneas, The Man." It is written in blank verse and its title expressed the thought in it. In an essay on Dido, Alice Nolan traced the impulses and emotions of the queen which led to her death.

The rest of the contract work will be completed this six weeks. It will consist of the reading of "Dante's Inferno," the translation of the sixth book of the Aeneid and an oral report by each student on each of the last 12 books of the Aeneid.

EIGHTH GRADE NOTES

Throwing Away Opportunities

Once upon a time a little girl sat beside a little trickling brook dropping the pretty flowers into the water. One by one they floated away never to be seen again. Suddenly she discovered that all of her flowers were gone, and she had none left to carry home to her mother. "Bring back my flowers!" she cried. But all she heard was the babbling of the brook that waited for no one.

Many of us in the eighth grade are throwing away valuable opportunities every day. We sit around wasting our time and suddenly wake up to find that it is too late to study for that exam. Since we have thrown away these opportunities we haven't any good report cards to bring home to our parents.

—RUBY HENRICHS

School Loyalty
 But our loyalty doesn't stop here. It is often said "actions speak louder than words." This is especially true in public places. On the street, in public assemblies, and many other places our actions reflect back to our school. If we want that reflection to be bright, and not clouded by some unnecessary thing, we must be quiet and courteous to all who are present.

Now, students of the Brainerd high, make your reflections bright and shiny.

When the easiest way is the best way . . .

There are no two ways about it! Certainly the easiest way to get the most for every dollar you spend is to buy products that you know about through the advertisements in your daily paper. You don't have to go out and look for buying opportunities. The advertisements bring them to you. And all you need do is consider the facts, compare values and decide on the soap or the sedan that best fits your judgment and your pocketbook.

Certainly the best way of making your money go farthest is to buy merchandise of proved value. Advertised merchandise. Merchandise that is bought and used by many people. Merchandise that must be superlatively good enough for its maker to keep calling it to the attention of people day after day and year after year.

This is the service—of convenience and profit—that the advertisements offer you every day. It will pay you to read them regularly and take advantage of everything they can do for you.

JUNIOR-SENIOR PROM WILL FOLLOW IN ANNUAL IN MODERNISTIC TREND

CLASS TO SELL CANDY SENIOR DRESS UP DAY TO INCREASE FINANCES

During the last junior meeting held Monday morning in the auditorium final preparations for the prom were discussed, committees were chosen and money matters were settled along with other plans for additional entertainment before the close of the school year.

Gathering both juniors and seniors together Miss Tornstrom made an appeal for more subscriptions on the new 1931 annual, telling how valuable a treasure these beautiful remembrances are in after school life.

Succeeding the general meeting the junior class had a private meeting in which the date for the Junior-Senior prom was set for Saturday, May 2. The time and arrangements were all to be decided by a committee. Class members desiring to attend the prom must be paid up on their dues and be signed up before Friday, May 15.

Following tradition the junior class will sell candy in school during senior dress up day which is this coming Friday. Contributions of home made candy are expected from juniors, and candy is to be handed in by Friday morning. Ice cream bars and candy bars are also to be sold on the first and second floors.

The suggestion was made and approved that the juniors have a private picnic some time in the near future. The date and place are to be decided by a committee. The following committee is to be general supervisor of the prom: John Folsom, Lyle Anderson, Parker Campbell, Clara Grimstead, Fanny Quinlen, Barbara Zapfe and Drexel Geist.

This committee decided on a modernistic idea for decorations, thus following the plan of the '31 annual.

Evelyn Foster, Leona Schubert, Frances Peterson and Dorothy Opsahl will plan the banquet menu which is to be prepared by Miss Filk and served in the cafeteria. Further arrangements will be announced later.

The picnic committees are as follows:

Food—Esther Kliebschmidt, Elaine Cook and Marguerite Lind.

Arrangement—Bob Wygle, Leslie Dryburgh and Joe Marchel.

These committees decide the date and place for the picnic and arrange for cars.

The committee in charge of the candy sale, choosing sellers etc., consists of Frances Reese and Robert Crust.

PAT'S PATTERN

Dearest Roberts:
 Hello, dearie. How's tricks? They're not bad here. That is, things are picking up. (Don't take me literally, really I'm not that kind of a girl.)

At the end of every year, there is always a rush of things that is quite absorbing, but this year for me especially. A senior always tries to crowd scholastic entertainment, athletics and clubs into his last year; because when he leaves the good old fold, life isn't quite such a colt's gallop.

If I keep that up, I'll get philosophical so I'll try to tell you about some of a senior's "cares."

First of all, our play. Every senior dreams from freshman days for the time when he can try out for, or succeed in obtaining a part for this play. It's loads of fun and oodles of work but it's a senior triumph.

Next, our Brainerd Annual. We seniors are responsible for the writing up, publishing and distributing of our dear old year book.

Of course, the prom isn't our official worry but we fret ourselves grey over clothes, partners, etc., for this occasion from the beginning of the school year.

Besides these our various parties and jolly get-togethers must be planned and executed to smooth out the lines on our young faces. And these lines are caused by the grilling necessary to get all our credits for graduation.

Commencement, bachelorette and class day require a lot of thought and planning. Senior dress-up day and the vovdri are regular sharks for work but, oh, the rewards.

Declamation, commercial contests, athletics and all the other contests require study and time. Our clubs are a source of lots of fun but are allotted time also.

Outside of that there isn't anything to do but I managed to squeeze in a little spare for a picnic and swim the other day. (I had to take up my bluff from last issue) Brr! It won't be long now.

Seniors to Combine Class

Picnic and Dressup Day

After much uncertainty on the part of the faculty, dressup day was set for next Friday. This day is looked forward to as the most fun of all the year for seniors. Miss Tornstrom suggested having a picnic on the afternoon of the same day. The plan was enthusiastically accepted.

The class song is being practiced and changes in the tune are being considered as it is rather difficult to sing.

Meetings were held last Monday and Tuesday to decide these things.

WHAT'S WHAT IN THE CLASSROOM

By The Underwriters

For the past school term, Miss Haug's fourth period English II class has had a club organized within their group. Every four weeks, or so, a chairman is appointed, who chooses a committee and a program is arranged.

The next program will be given sometime in the latter part of April. This program will be a re-union banquet of the English class after 25 years of absence. The program is as follows: Lee Clarkson, "My Life as a Motorcycle Cop"; Audrey Erickson, "My Life at Coaching Girls Basketball"; Alfred Manz, "Travel Abroad"; Betty Mahlum, "Travel at Home"; Dorothea Pointon, "My Life as an Actress"; and Raymond Johnson, "A Newspaper Man."

So far, the various programs that have been given have all been a success and the chairman and her committee hope that this program will more than double the success of the other ones.

Frances Reese.

For the last six weeks of school, Miss Spencer's Plane Geometry classes have started construction work. This will enable each pupil to prove theorems which had to be taken for granted previously.

Miss Schow's English II classes have completed Julius Caesar, and students can gain extra credit by handing in projects pertaining to the subject studied, and also concerning Roman times. Among various projects handed in are several pictures of Roman armor, a colored sketch of the death of Brutus and a few of Shakespeare, his home and the battle grounds mentioned in the book.

Several pieces of Roman articles were also handed in.

Anyone wishing to see the results of the project may go in Miss Schow's room after school.

Cyril DeRosier.

In the girls' gym, they are doing numerous things of late, such as forming kittenball teams, and choosing their own titles, such as: House of David, Old Maid Socker, Blue Ribbons, etc. It's great fun to watch the girls play ball, because you can't make out whether they're chopping wood or playing golf, they strike at anything from they're head to their toes.

Since the boys are having a track meet, we girls think we ought to show some of our talent also (ahem!).

Various things that they have signed up for are horseshoe, (watch us boys, we might beat you) golf, (for all we swing a club) um, um, and, kittenball. Well, as the old saying goes, practice makes perfect, so we might have a pretty good track meet.

Margaret Houston.

A majority of the students in Miss Torgerson's bookkeeping classes, are just finishing their second sets. The firm for which they kept books for is H. W. Good, dealer in fancy provisions and groceries. Some of the students have already started their fourth set, which concerns itself with the firm, Helm and Stien, who run a jewelry store. Those who have not finished their third set, will continue on to the fourth until that is finished.

Fern Flint.

Biology students are just beginning to study about forests and the things pertaining to them. Already the students are beginning to have a vague conception of the way Minnesota must have been 60 years ago—before the forests had been removed.

Previous to this, the subject of flowers was studied.

Lois Thabes.

Members of the Hi-Y Chapter I and II met at a joint supper meeting last Wednesday in the social rooms of the church of the Y. M. C. A.

Friday, April 24, was set as the date for the party. Under the guidance of Obert Benson, chairman, the committee in charge of the party has been working Trojan-like, to make the party a success.

Gerald Cass, Lyle Mayo, and Ted Frank of Chapter I were the delegates to the Older Boys' Conference at Willmar Friday night and Saturday, April 18 and 19.

It is in contrast to the borders of other countries which are protected by arms and ammunition. The only similar monument is the 'State of Christ' in the Andes Mountains of South America which symbolizes peace established by the neighboring countries.

Comm. Classes Present Assembly Program

As a climax to a most successful year the commercial department presented a varied program to the student body Friday morning.

Alta Cregar, accompanied by Evelyn Loom at the piano, tap-danced before the assembly.

A play, "A Saturday Morning in the Office," was well performed by the following cast: Lee Clarkson, Howard Storm, Fay Rosina, Doris Geist, Robert Hanson, Lyle Cregar, Fred Mraz, Florence Jones, Evelyn Loom and Leo Turcotte. The play was directed by the instructors, Miss Ruthe, Miss Lord and Miss Torgerson. Stage properties were handled by Arthur Hedlund, Jim Garvey and Joe Marchel.

Education Defined

Out of diverse opinions on the ever-increasing subject of education has come what promises to be a worth while thought. President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University has given a definition of education which deserves commendation.

According to him education is a combination of: the ability to use the language of your country correctly, good manners, power of reflection with an inquiring mind, power of mental growth from birth to death, and possession of power and efficiency.

Mr. Butler asserts that with these qualifications as a basis, anyone skilled in scholarship, literary power, mechanical skill, professional capacity, business competence, social leadership, or political leadership will be truly educated.

The Freshman issue of the Lincoln Torch was printed on green paper (for St. Patrick's, of course). It was the first Freshman issue ever published in Lincoln high school. We are sure that the editor's desire that it would appeal to the readers is fulfilled.

To make their appearance as effective as their singing, the girls' glee club of St. Cloud High, entering the State Music Contest, are to be in uniform dress.

NOVEL CONTRACT USED IN LATIN

ORIGINAL PROJECTS DONE BY EACH STUDENT; CLEVER RESULTS OBTAINED

Special contract work in Vergil was used as the basis of six weeks marks in preference to the usual six weeks examinations. This basis of grading is possible in the Vergil class because there are only five students who are all capable of doing a work. When all the contract work is completed it will be typed and compiled into a notebook as the class' tribute to Vergil, the greatest of all Roman poets.

One assignment has been turned in so far by each student. Bernice Steinfeldt has written a dedication in Latin to Publius Marius Vergil, the author of the Aeneid, which the Vergil class is studying. Stuart Patterson has completed an account of the actions of Aeneas and his personal reactions toward the man. Esther Kukola's conception of a diary, which Dido might have written was very cleverly done and showed much thought. Clara Grimstad expressed her ideas of Aeneas in a poem called "Aeneas, The Man." It is written in blank verse and its title expressed the thought in it. In an essay on Dido, Alice Nolan traced the impulses and emotions of the queen which led to her death.

The rest of the contract work will be completed this six weeks. It will consist of the reading of "Dante's Inferno," the translation of the sixth book of the Aeneid and an oral report by each student on each of the last 12 books of the Aeneid.

EIGHTH GRADE NOTES

Throwing Away Opportunities
 Once upon a time a little girl sat beside a little trickling brook dropping the pretty flowers into the water. One by one they floated away never to be seen again. Suddenly she discovered that all of her flowers were gone, and she had none left to carry home to her mother. "Bring back my flowers!" she cried. But all she heard was the babbling of the brook that waited for no one.

Many of us in the eighth grade are throwing away valuable opportunities every day. We sit around wasting our time and suddenly wake up to find that it is too late to study for that exam. Since we have thrown away these opportunities we haven't any good report cards to bring home to our parents.

—RUBY HENRICHS

School Loyalty
 But our loyalty doesn't stop here. It is often said "actions speak louder than words." This is especially true in public places. On the street, in public assemblies, and many other places our actions reflect back to our school. If we want that reflection to be bright, and not clouded by some unnecessary thing, we must be quiet and courteous to all who are present.

Now, students of the Brainerd high, make your reflections bright and shiny.

When the easiest way is the best way . . .

There are no two ways about it! Certainly the easiest way to get the most for every dollar you spend is to buy products that you know about through the advertisements in your daily paper. You don't have to go out and look for buying opportunities. The advertisements bring them to you. And all you need do is consider the facts, compare values and decide on the soap or the sedan that best fits your judgment and your pocketbook.

Certainly the best way of making your money go farthest is to buy merchandise of proved value. Advertised merchandise. Merchandise that is bought and used by many people. Merchandise that must be superlatively good enough for its maker to keep calling it to the attention of people day after day and year after year.

This is the service—of convenience and profit—that the advertisements offer you every day. It will pay you to read them regularly and take advantage of everything they can do for you.

CROSBY COUNCIL ASK FOR SEWER PIPE BIDS

Cost of Proposed Improvements to the Sewer Outfall Will Run Around the $3,900 Mark

The village council of Crosby is advertising for bids on 1,900 feet of sewer pipe and it is anticipated that proposed improvements to the sewer outlet will run around $3,900.

About 1913 the source of the creek running out of Serpent Lake into which the sewer runs, was changed to allow mining operations. Since that time the sewer output has been running across part of the Evergreen property through a flume. The Evergreen expects to mine this part of their property now and the creek will have to be tiled or changed, it is said.

A drag line has been secured from the Evergreen company by the village and the job will afford labor for a considerable number of men.

DELIVERED $797 EQUIPPED

Owners of the new Pontiac are people who know from experience how to judge performance and quality. Theirs is no blind choice. They select Pontiac because it enables them to enjoy fine-car advantages at moderate cost. You'll appreciate these fine-car features:

NEW 60 - HORSEPOWER MOTOR—An engine far above old ideas of quality performance possible at this price. Smooth, flexible, dependable—and decidedly economical despite its power.

FISHER BODY CRAFTSMANSHIP—That inimitable beauty of design and styling which contributes so much to motoring pleasure—particularly when you have guests. Upholstery is fine, durable whipcord or mohair. Cushions are form-fitting. There is plenty of room for the comfort of all in the car.

RUBBER-CUSHIONED CHASSIS—A distinctly fine-car feature greatly adding to riding ease. Road shocks are absorbed by rubber insulation at more than 40 chassis points. Rubber-cushioned shackles, an important part of this insulation system, not only promote comfort and stability on the road, but eliminate lubrication at 12 points.

The council granted permission to H. Turcotte to block off half the sidewalk in front of the Miracle block while it is undergoing repairs.

The matter of dumping objectionable refuse at South 10th and Northwood streets was discussed. The matter was referred to the city engineer.

The discussion of the parking of large trucks on the principal downtown streets brought about the motion to instruct the police committee and the mayor to keep them off the downtown streets.

The city engineer was asked to estimate the cost of cutting down a block on South Tenth street between Oak and Pine streets.

The report of unsatisfactory meals for city prisoners was referred to the police committee with power to act.

The matter of paving a certain part of the alley back of the city hall was referred to the street committee.

A committee of three consisting of Aldermen Elvick, Johnson and Lyons was appointed to meet with the Park Board to discuss the renting of concessions at Lum Park for the summer months.

O. I. Grotte, of Hunter, N. D., and W. H. Murfin of Fargo, appeared before the council and were granted permission to erect a lumber yard at Fourth and Main streets. The yard will face Fourth street and extend along the N. P. tracks 150 feet. The new building will be of English architecture with stucco front. They are negotiating with the Northern Pacific railway for a long time lease.

Alderman Frank E. Johnson objected to granting permission for the new yard saying it was objectionable to some of the north side residents living near the proposed location.

CROSBY COUNCIL ASK FOR SEWER PIPE BIDS

Cost of Proposed Improvements to the Sewer Outfall Will Run Around the $3,000 Mark

The village council of Crosby is advertising for bids on 1,900 feet of sewer pipe and it is anticipated that proposed improvements to the sewer outlet will run around $3,000. About 1913 the source of the creek running out of Serpent Lake into which the sewer runs, was changed to allow mining operations. Since that time the sewer output has been running across part of the Evergreen property through a flume. The Evergreen expects to mine this part of their property now and the creek will have to be tiled or changed, it is said.

A drag line has been secured from the Evergreen company by the village and the job will afford labor for a considerable number of men.

A. BROWN WINS SPECIAL MATCH

Four Brainerd Men Score 100 Percent on Official Army Target at 50 Yards

After a match at the Y. M. C. A. shooting gallery last evening in which members of the Snelling club proved themselves practically even up with the Legion Rifle team, a special match took place between members of the two teams in which some expert shooting was demonstrated.

Using the official half inch army target, the following made possibles of 100 percent at the 50 foot range, position prone, J. Gorham, A. Brown, G. Flaata and L. Shipp.

Smaller targets were then used until Gorham and Brown became the final contenders, using the heads of thumb tacks for their targets. The match was conceded to Brown when he hit the base of a .22 calibre shell, used as a target.

The Snelling club will meet next Monday evening at which time further practice will take place with the rifle.

Members of the Snelling club team last night were Arthur Brown, Gay Anderson, Robt. Brown, Carl Holvick, Lyle Anderson and Maurice Larson.

No Advance in Prices!

The new PONTIAC

is a car of unusual grace and beauty . . . economical . . . powerful

. . . selling at only

DELIVERED EQUIPPED

Owners of the new Pontiac are people who know from experience how to judge performance and quality. Theirs is no blind choice.

They select Pontiac because it enables them to enjoy fine-car advantages at moderate cost. You'll appreciate these fine-car features:

NEW 60-HORSEPOWER MOTOR—An engine far above old ideas of quality performance possible at this price. Smooth, flexible, dependable—and decidedly economical despite its power.

FISHER BODY CRAFTSMANSHIP—That inimitable beauty of design and styling which contributes so much to motoring pleasure—particularly when you have guests. Upholstery is fine, durable whiplash or mohair. Cushions are form-fitting. There is plenty of room for the comfort of all in the car.

RUBBER-CUSHIONED CHASSIS—A distinctly fine-car feature greatly adding to riding ease. Road shocks are absorbed by rubber insulation at more than 40 chassis points. Rubber-cushioned shackles, an important part of this insulation system, not only promote comfort and stability on the road, but eliminate lubrication at 12 points.

INSULATED CONSTRUCTION—A notable advance in snugness of body structure and insulation which shuts out heat, cold, dampness and excessive noise. Building the cowl and windshield pillars as a single piece prevents leaks and rattles.

LARGE, POSITIVE BRAKES—Brakes that evenly grip all wheels with a stopping power that gives every member of the family new confidence in driving.

If the new Pontiac is anywhere near the motor car price you have in mind, test its actual value for yourself. A demonstration will be arranged at your convenience.

"MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST"

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

Bhima Martin, called "Bim," young reporter, is anxious to aid her father's small-town newspaper. She rejects the marriage proposals of Walter Vance, Assistant Chief of Police. Walter asks Bim not to attend a party given by wealthy Emily Hardy, in honor of the decrepit Baron von Wiese and his haughty young wife, Ted Frost, town play-boy and husband of patient Mary Frost, is enamored of the Baroness. As the butler serves wine, the Baroness stares at him. Their eyes meet and, stunned, he drops a glass.

CHAPTER III.

THE deep silence which followed the tinkle of shattering glass was wiped out when everyone began to talk at once.

Bim saw embarrassed red slide over the butler's face under Emily Hardy's glare just before the man bent down with a swinging, graceful ease to gather the splinters. And she saw, or thought she saw, something else as well—something far more intriguing.

It was only for an instant that the man stooped so his red mop was below the level of the table and he arose slowly, keeping his eyes down as if they still searched for bits of glass. Then, as his head came up beside the Baroness, who still stared into the mirror on the opposite wall, Bim would have sworn that he said something—

It was over in a flash and he was gone, but Bim fancied that the long, dark eyes of the guest of honor narrowed ever so slightly though her head did not move.

A Night For Love.

Em elected to have coffee on the terrace outside the dining room at the southeast corner of the house and the dinner guests strolled out on the flagstones, there to lope upon the cushions of huge wicker chairs.

It was a warm, still night hung with a thin sliver of moon and rimmed about by the lights across the river far below Eagle's Nest. White ghost flowers on a vine nearby filled the air with fragrance and from somewhere up the mountain music came stealing to their ears faintly and sweetly.

A night for romance, a night for love. And Bim thought of Walter with a pang of regret. She was very fond of Walter; he was all that Dad had said and more. Only . . . well, she always had known Walter.

Besides she wanted from life something more than just marriage. She felt within herself the ability to do wonderful things and she wanted her chance. If only Dad were not so conservative, so set in his ways about the Banner.

He made her tone down everything she wrote to a point where all the thrill in writing was lost; the big bugbear of his life was what he called "yellow journalism." But of course nothing ever happened in Kingcliffe to be yellow about. It was discouraging; it was really.

She fell to studying the dinner guests, wondering what each was thinking. Peter Hardy had been obliged to assist the old Baron to his feet and Em and Peter between them had practically carried the old fellow to the terrace, since his feet seemed almost useless. What a man for one so vivid, so alive as the Baroness to marry! Em had confided that the Baroness was an American and she had been upon the point of further revelations when something had interrupted. Perhaps the Baroness had exchanged wealth for a title? Strange, Bim reflected, what women considered worth while.

Laura Allan and Bunny Baird were sitting together and Laura was listening to him for once. Bob Trent still sulked; Millicent fluttered at his side, trying to coax him into good nature. Mary was one of the little group about the Baron and Ted lounged against a table of magazines beside which the Baroness had seated herself. Ted was being his most charming self but the Baroness seemed to have lost interest in him for she answered his sallies in monosyllables or not at all, sitting there with her eyes down, fingering the magazines.

Suddenly she arose and murmuring something about having left her cigarette case in the library, went swiftly across the terrace and through the French door into the dining room.

She did not proceed to the library, however. Bim, seated directly in range with the door, was so placed as to command a view of the entire dining room and she watched in some surprise while the tall, dark woman paused beside the serving table. She looked tense and eager with her chin raised proudly and her gorgeous shoulders forward; standing with the light striking down on her blue black hair she seemed to flame like a dark and perhaps sinister jewel.

Bim saw the door to the serving pantry swing back and the butler step through. His head came up sharply at sight of the Baroness, he half wheeled about as if to retreat. But the woman crossed to him and began to speak in a hurried, earnest way. He shook his head and she put her hand on his arm; then he glanced down at the hand and it seemed to Bim that he wilted somewhat—that his tall, lithe figure sagged.

Mysterious Actions.

They were standing thus when the door behind them again swung open. The Baroness started to snatch her hand away but held it suspended above the man's arm, fingers outspread as if they were frozen, as the two jerked about to confront the intruder—a youngish woman in the black dress and white cap and apron of a maid.

As long as she lived Bim was to remember the play of expression upon the face of the woman in the doorway. Amazement first, then horror, then panic. Snatching a white-cuffed hand against her mouth, she backed away and the door flung to with a clatter upon her scream.

Screams, one after another, pierced through the night, growing fainter when, as Bim imagined, the woman retreated into the depths of the house. She saw the butler follow through the swinging door; she saw the Baroness glide into the shadows of the library and come sauntering out upon the terrace looking as remote, as unperturbed as if nothing had happened.

Em was on her feet booming questions as the butler emerged from the garden path which skirted the terrace and continued to the kitchen.

"Well, Williams?" bellowed Em. "It is nothing, madam," the man replied calmly. "One of the maids has had a scare. A—a burglar—that is, she fancied there was one."

Bim marveled at the poise with which he lied. He was impressive save for the light hesitation in his speech and even this seemed to make his story more probable.

"Burglars!" shrieked Em. "There was none, madam. Just the maid's imagination."

"Where is she?" Em started for the door and Bim, too eager to stand on ceremony, followed.

"If madam will allow me—" The butler stepped in front of Em and headed the little procession through the house and up the stairway to an apartment in the far west wing.

"It's the Baroness' maid!" Em exclaimed.

Master of Himself.

"Yes, Madam," Williams was the first to enter the ornate, green-tinted chamber and to pass through to a smaller but hardly less sumptuous room, where the woman Bim had seen in the doorway of the serving-pantry had collapsed upon a couch.

"Well, Jane?" demanded Emily exactly as she had spoken to Williams on the terrace.

The woman raised a stricken face, from which, however, panic was gone. It was not Emily, but Williams she looked at as she tried to stand and, giving that up, dropped back upon the couch, twisting her hands together.

"If I might suggest, Madam," Williams' voice was suave. "She seems in a state. You see"—he appeared to be speaking to Jane as much as to Mrs. Peter Hardy, and the girl fastened wide, agonized eyes upon his face—"you see she was here, dozing like when she heard a—a noise. There in the bedroom it was. Being in a drowse, so to speak, she was frightened and screamed. That's all of it; leastwise it's what she told me when I came bustling up. That's right, isn't it, Miss?"

"Y—yes—" The maid seemed in a daze as she whispered the word. Emily told Williams to bring the girl some brandy and went back to her guests, trailed by Bim.

It was when Williams passed liquor was winding in and out among the chairs on the terrace that Bim, rather keyed up by the mystery, saw something else happen.

The Baroness, sitting with a magazine which she had taken from the table upon her lap, began very deliberately to tear out a page as the butler approached with his tray. And when he paused beside her Bim saw that she slid the folded paper into his hand.

"Quacks" Reap Harvest

From Cullible Public

Burning a rabbit's heart on the fire to bring a mate for a lonely woman; paying half a crown for a quack consultation and a pennyworth of herbs; buying charms to ward off evil; burning incense at fortune-telling tea parties, and reading tarot cards to discover whether husbands are faithful to their wives! These are among the many amazing performances carried on in the West riding of Yorkshire. Leeds and Bradford, in particular, are infested with these places, where people are induced to undergo "treatment" for all sorts of ailments and for all sorts of reasons. Incompetent people calling themselves "herbalists" or "advisers" make examinations of men and women and then prescribe some herb. Charms of various kinds are sold to neurotic women suffering from a fear complex. At Leeds one woman paid 75 cents for a rat's tail that was supposed to have been possessed of special powers. Many homes have been destroyed by the suspicious aroused in the minds of wives concerning their husbands. The police experience great difficulty in securing prosecutions, because people who have been gulled are ashamed to come forward to give evidence.—London Tit-Bits.

An example of Konjola's power is seen in the experience of Mr. E. M. Van Pelt, 438 N. E. First avenue, Miami, Fla., who says: "I was badly run down from loss of appetite and constipation. I could not work for weeks at a time. Harsh laxatives gave but temporary relief. I took five bottles of Konjola and my appetite returned to normal. Constipation was corrected and I rapidly gained in weight and vitality."

No less significant is the experience of Mrs. Albert Freed, Brooks and Chestnut streets, Louisville, Ky., who says: "I was extremely nervous and lost weight and strength steadily. Rheumatism and neuritis bothered me and my stomach became weak. Konjola restored my stomach to normal and relieved the pain of rheumatism and neuritis. "MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST"

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

Bhima Martin, called "Bim," young reporter, is anxious to aid her father's small-town newspaper. She rejects the marriage proposals of Walter Vance, Assistant Chief of Police. Walter asks Bim not to attend a party given by wealthy Emily Hardy, in honor of the decrepit Baron von Wiese and his haughty young wife, Ted Frost, town play-boy and husband of patient Mary Frost, is enamored of the Baroness. As the butler serves wine, the Baroness stares at him. Their eyes meet and, stunned, he drops a glass.

CHAPTER III.

THE deep silence which followed the tinkle of shattering glass was wiped out when everyone began to talk at once.

Bim saw embarrassed red slide over the butler's face under Emily Hardy's glare just before the man bent down with a swinging, graceful ease to gather the splinters. And she saw, or thought she saw, something else as well—something far more intriguing.

It was only for an instant that the man stooped so his red mop was below the level of the table and he arose slowly, keeping his eyes down as if they still searched for bits of glass. Then, as his head came up beside the Baroness, who still stared into the mirror on the opposite wall, Bim would have sworn that he said something—that he spoke a word or two beneath the rattle of conversation.

It was over in a flash and he was gone, but Bim fancied that the long, dark eyes of the guest of honor narrowed ever so slightly though her head did not move.

A Night for Love.

Em elected to have coffee on the terrace outside the dining room at the southeast corner of the house and the dinner guests strolled out on the flagstones, there to loll upon the cushions of huge wicker chairs.

It was a warm, still night hung with a thin slice of moon and rimmed about by the lights across the river far below Eagle's Nest. White ghost flowers on a vine nearby filled the air with fragrance and from somewhere up the mountain music came stealing to their ears faintly and sweetly.

A night for romance, a night for love. And Bim thought of Walter with a pang of regret. She was very fond of Walter; he was all that Dad had said and more. Only, well, she always had known Walter.

Besides she wanted from life something more than just marriage. She felt within herself the ability to do wonderful things and she wanted her chance. If only Dad were not so conservative, so set in his ways about the Banner. He made her tone down everything she wrote to a point where all the thrill in writing was lost; the big bugbear of his life was what he called "yellow journalism." But of course nothing ever happened in Kingcliffe to be yellow about. It was discouraging; it was really.

She fell to studying the dinner guests, wondering what each was thinking. Peter Hardy had been obliged to assist the old Baron to his feet and Em and Peter between them had practically carried the old fellow to the terrace, since his feet seemed almost useless. What a man for one so vivid, so alive as the Baroness to marry! Em had confided that the Baroness was an American and she had been upon the point of further revelations when something had interrupted. Perhaps the Baroness had exchanged wealth for a title? Strange, Bim reflected, what women considered worth while.

Laura Allan and Bunny Baird were sitting together and Laura was listening to him for once. Bob Trent still sulked; Millicent fluttered at his side, trying to coax him into good nature. Mary was one of the little group about the Baron and Ted lounged against a table of magazines beside which the Baroness had seated herself. Ted was being his most charming self but the Baroness seemed to have lost interest in him for she answered his sallies in monosyllables or not at all, sitting there with her eyes down, fingering the magazines.

The maid screams at sight of the Baroness.

Suddenly she arose and murmuring something about having left her cigarette case in the library, went swiftly across the terrace and through the French door into the dining room.

She did not proceed to the library, however. Bim, seated directly in range with the door, was so placed as to command a view of the entire dining room and she watched in some surprise while the tall, dark woman paused beside the serving table. She looked tense and eager with her chin raised proudly and her gorgeous shoulders forward; standing with the light striking down on her blue black hair she seemed to flame like a dark and perhaps sinister jewel.

Bim saw the door to the serving pantry swing back and the butler step through. His head came up sharply at sight of the Baroness, he half wheeled about as if to retreat. But the woman crossed to him and began to speak in a hurried, earnest way. He shook his head and she put her hand on his arm; then he glanced down at the hand and it seemed to Bim that he wilted somewhat—that his tall, lithe figure sagged.

Mysterious Actions.

They were standing thus when the door behind them again swung open. The Baroness started to snatch her hand away but held it suspended above the man's arm, fingers outspread as if they were frozen, as the two jerked about to confront the intruder—a youngish woman in the black dress and white cap and apron of a maid.

As long as she lived Bim was to remember the play of expression upon the face of the woman in the doorway. Amusement first, then horror, then panic. Snatching a white-cuffed hand against her mouth, she backed away and the door flung to with a clatter upon her scream.

Screams, one after another, pierced through the night, growing fainter when, as Bim imagined, the woman retreated into the depths of the house. She saw the butler follow through the swinging door; she saw the Baroness glide into the shadows of the library and come sauntering out upon the terrace looking as remote, as unperturbed as if nothing had happened.

Em was on her feet booming questions as the butler emerged from the garden path which skirted the terrace and continued to the kitchen.

"Well, Williams?" bellowed Em. "It is nothing, madam," the man replied calmly. "One of the maids has had a scare. A—burglar—that is, she fancied there was one—"

Bim marveled at the poise with which he lied. He was impassive save for the light hesitation in his speech and even this seemed to make his story more probable.

"Burglars!" shrieked Em. "There was none, madam. Just the maid's imagination."

"Where is she?" Em started for the door and Bim, too eager to stand on ceremony, followed.

"If madam will allow me—" The butler stepped in front of Em and headed the little procession through the house and up the stairway to an apartment in the far west wing.

"It's the Baroness' maid!" Em

exclaimed.

Master of Himself.

"Yes, Madam," Williams was the first to enter the ornate, green-tinted chamber and to pass through to a smaller but hardly less sumptuous room, where the woman Bim had seen in the doorway of the serving-pantry had collapsed upon a couch.

"Well, Jane?" demanded Emily exactly as she had spoken to Williams on the terrace.

The woman raised a stricken face, from which, however, panic was gone. It was not Emily, but Williams she looked at as she tried to stand and, giving that up, dropped back upon the couch, twisting her hands together.

"If I might suggest, Madam"—Williams' voice was suave. "She seems in a state. You see"—he appeared to be speaking to Jane as much as to Mrs. Peter Hardy, and the girl fastened wide, agonized eyes upon his face—"you see she was here, dozing like when she heard a noise. There in the bedroom it was. Being in a drowse, so to speak, she was frightened and screamed. That's all of it; leastwise it's what she told me when I came bustling up. That's right, isn't it, Miss?"

"Y-yes—" The maid seemed in a daze as she whispered the word. Emily told Williams to bring the girl some brandy and went back to her guests, trailed by Bim.

It was when Williams passed liqueurs, winding in and out among the chairs on the terrace that Bim, rather keyed up by the mystery, saw something else happen.

The Baroness, sitting with a magazine which she had taken from the table upon her lap, began very deliberately to tear out a page as the butler approached with his tray. And when he paused beside her Bim saw that she slid the folded paper into his hand.

"Quacks" Reap Harvest

From Cripple Public

Burning a rabbit's heart on the fire to bring a mate for a lonely woman; paying half a crown for a quack consultation and a pennyworth of herbs; buying charms to ward off evil; burning incense at fortune-telling tea parties, and reading tarot cards to discover whether husbands are faithful to their wives! These are among the many amazing performances carried on in the West riding of Yorkshire. Leeds and Bradford, in particular, are infested with these places, where people are induced to undergo "treatment" for all sorts of ailments and for all sorts of reasons. Incompetent people calling themselves "herbalists" or "advisers" make examinations of men and women and then prescribe some herb. Charms of various kinds are sold to neurotic women suffering from a fear complex. At Leeds one woman paid 75 cents for a rat's tail that was supposed to have been possessed of special powers. Many homes have been destroyed by the suspicious aroused in the minds of wives concerning their husbands. The police experience great difficulty in securing prosecutions, because people who have been gulled are ashamed to come forward to give evidence.—London Times.

YOU, TOO, CAN BE HAPPY AGAIN!

See What Konjola Did For These Former Sufferers—Read Their Words.

An example of Konjola's power is seen in the experience of Mr. E. M. Van Pelt, 438 N. E. First avenue, Miami, Fla., who says:

"I was badly run down from loss of appetite and constipation. I could not work for weeks at a time. Harsh laxatives gave but temporary relief. I took five bottles of Konjola and my appetite returned to normal. Constipation was corrected and I rapidly gained in weight and vitality."

No less significant is the experience of Mrs. Albert Freed, Brooks and Chestnut streets, Louisville, Ky., who says: "I was extremely nervous and lost weight and strength steadily. Rheumatism and neuritis bothered me and my stomach became weak. Konjola restored my stomach to normal and relieved the pain of rheumatism and neuritis. I gained 23 pounds and am in excellent physical condition today."
